Saying it with flowers

Florists all over Lakeland area, like professional florist Debbie Mullen, are happily busy doing just that as Valentine's Day, biggest flower day of the year, approaches. On Feb. 14, a special 'I Love You' can be spelled romantically with red roses, lovingly with pink carnations, sweetly with yellow tulips or potted plants, or just for fun with balloon bouquets and cuddly toy animals—just as long as they all 'have a heart.'—Photo by John Vance

Push plan to preserve Lake County farmland

by JOSEPH SOULAK

One of the qualities that makes Lake County so attractive is its rural character. This might be preserved for future generations as part of a program by an arm of the Forest Preserve Dist.

It will happen through what is known as a conservancy district. The district will buy existing farms at market prices and allow the owners to continue living on the land and working it in exchange for rent and payment of taxes. This will create a so-called life estate for the owner.

"Meanwhile, Lake County will have saved another piece of land from the speculators and developers," said County Board

"If we wouldn't have fooled Mother Nature in the first place we wouldn't have a problem today."—John Reindl, Mundelein board member member F.T. "Mike" Graham, chairman of a newly-formed Land Conservation Committee.

"When the owner dies or no longer wishes to work the land, the county takes possession," Graham said. "Whether it takes five years, 15 years or 50 years down the road, this piece of land is preserved."

In reality, Lake County buys the development rights to the land. This prevents it from being developed. As an example, Graham said the purchase price most likely will be the difference between the average price of raw agricultural land (about $10,000 per acre) and the low agricultural value (about $1,000 per acre) or $9,000. The value could be higher or lower, depending upon location.

How this will be financed is yet to be worked out, Graham said. "It will be creative," he promised, "and it won't necessarily be by bonding."

Graham said the public will benefit in more ways than one. "First, this will add another dimension to the quality of life, keep the countryside the way we see it today and will save money," he said about not paying development costs. Graham and other open-space advocates say new homes and apartments do not pay their way due to the demand they make on schools, sewer and water, police and fire protection and other services.

"Either way the public is going to pay," Graham said, "if we adopt or don't adopt it. It costs two to three times more to develop land than to keep it untouched."

Of the 300,000 acres in Lake County, 180,000 of it is in farmland, open space and owned by the Forest Preserve Dist. The number of farms has been growing over the past decade due to splintering of large farms, but the number under production has decreased. At last count there were 750 farms in the county, 60 percent of them owned by absentee landlords.

Average value of Lake County farmland was $9,318 in 1986, well above the state median of $2,000 to $3,000. This is because the county is considered a high-growth area. In 1972 the same farmland sold for $2,740 per acre and stabilized at $3,200 to $4,000 an acre between 1978 and 1982.

Illinois law favors farmers with a low tax assessment based on the soil's productivity. While this works equitably in other parts of the state, it results in land that is taxed far below its actual market value. This allows farmers to profit amid today's speculative land boom.

Future of the Lake County farm has been studied by the Illinois Regional Planning Comm. These observations have been made:

1. Large-scale farming such as grain and livestock will decrease more rapidly over the next 30 years, tenants will farm land owned by corporations or trusts and there will be increased pressure to sell.
2. Small-scale and specialized farms with higher returns will emerge such as truck farms and nursery or greenhouse operations to serve the landscape needs of a growing populace.
3. Land set aside in a 1982 county master plan for development will meet the county's growth needs for 20, leaving ample so-called "county land."

4. Maintaining an open, uncongested, rural setting is held in high esteem by long-term and new residents.

5. Several agencies and governing bodies may be needed to acquire and manage open space. Land acquisition is the most effective means of preserving and managing open space.

Judith Heyman, a member of the regional planning commission, insisted at a Feb. 2 meeting of the new conservancy district that a public information program be developed to win support for land acquisition, land should be acquired without condemnation and these should accompany growth in an area.

Several persons pointed out that conservancy districts in other parts of the nation such as Maryland, Massachusetts and Wyoming are successful.

County Board member Suzi Schmidt of Lake Villa said part of the education effort should be directed at telling the importance of seemingly useless wetlands to the ecological balance.

Board member Samuel Payne of Zion said this program "will preserve the high Lake County standards."

"If we wouldn't have fooled Mother Nature in the first place we wouldn't have a problem today," board member John Reindl of Mundelein added.

"One of the nice features of this plan is that the property remains on the tax rolls," Graham said. "It collects money this way and earns money for the county in the form of rent paid by the tenant."

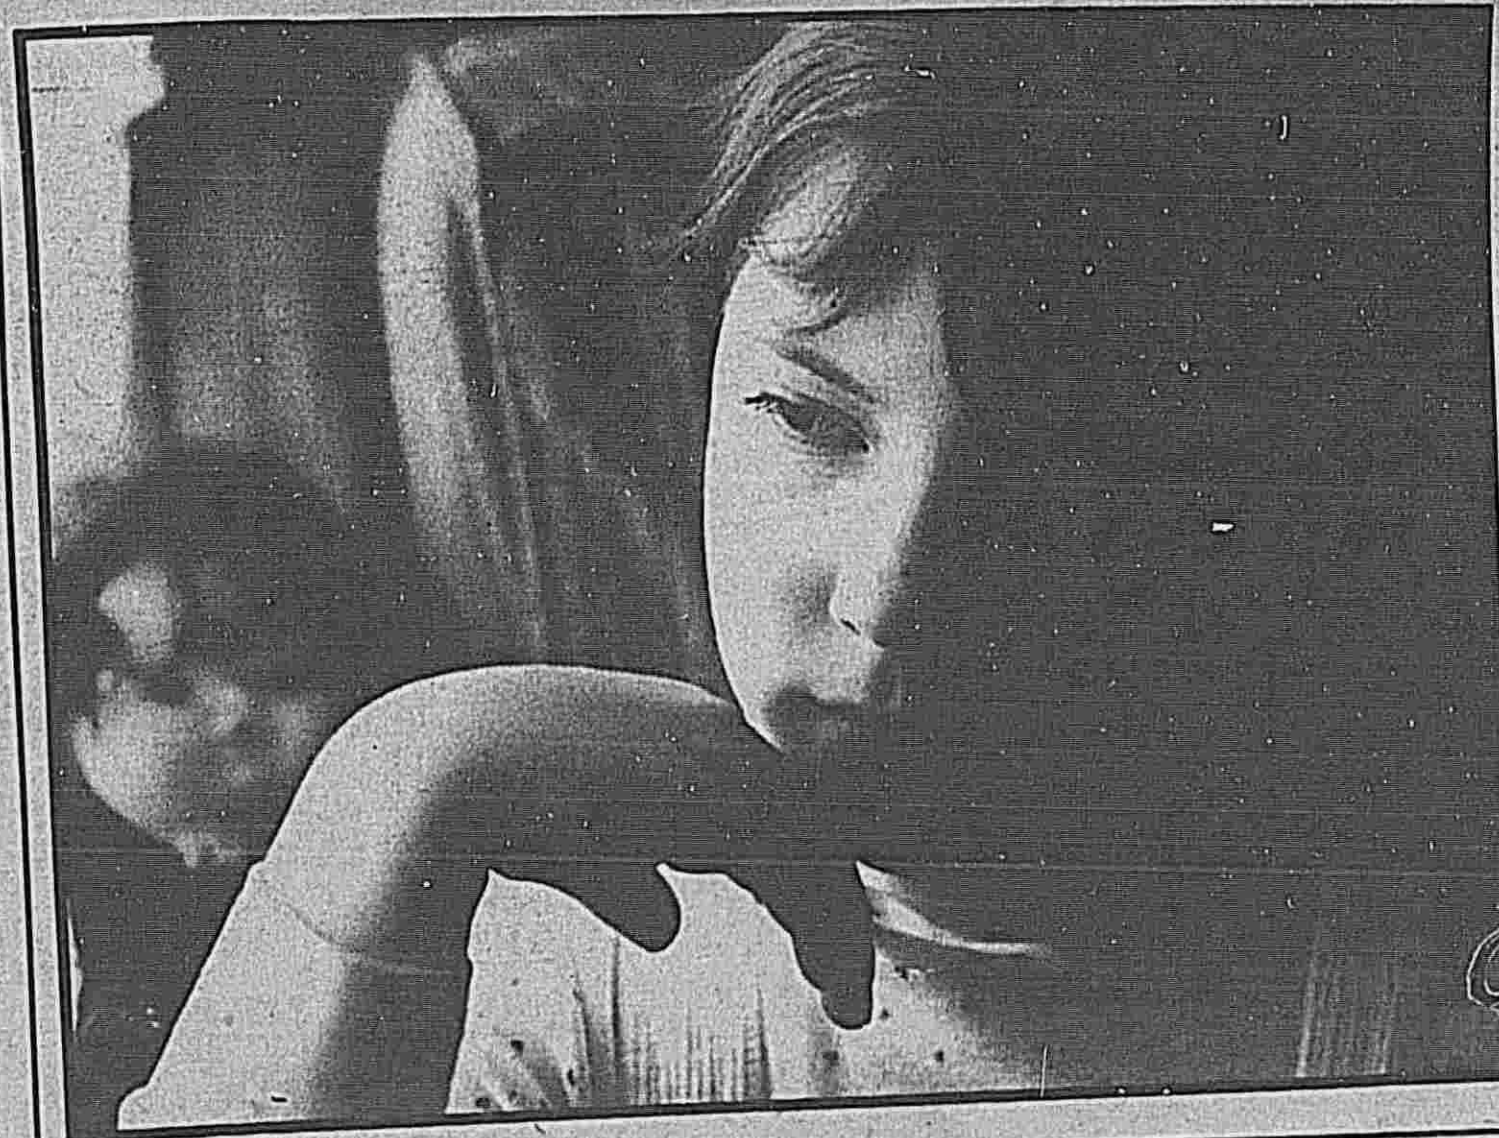

Almost to a member, those attending the first meeting urged immediate action to protect the Lake County countryside.

Discussing growth issues

Alcoholics do not suffer alone . . .

We get hurt, too.

Alcohol and drug abuse afflicts an estimated 59 million Americans, young and old, male and female. And the number of people whose lives are affected - even endangered - by an alcoholic is even more alarming. People like employers, co-workers, neighbors, friends, spouses and, most regrettable...children. Did you know, for example, that a child with one alcoholic parent has a significantly greater chance of developing alcoholism than the child of non-alcoholic parents?

At Victory Memorial Hospital, we're helping alcoholics (and their friends and families) recognize and understand their illness. Victory offers unique outpatient and in-hospital programs. And we have specific programs for the chemically dependent adult or teen.

If you need help, or would like to learn more about the disease of addiction, call Victory's 24-hour resource line at 688-HELP. We can help the hurting stop. Call today.

Valentine's party

A king and queen will be crowned and many prizes awarded on Tuesday, Feb. 14 when the Antioch Area Chapter 387 of the American Assn. of Retired Persons (AARP) holds its Valentine's party at the Antioch Senior Center. All members who have not purchased tickets to the catered lunch will have to brown bag it. Two AARP outings are planned. Tickets to "South Pacific" luncheon and show at the Martinique in Chicago and the senior trip to New Orleans in May are still available.

St. Peter's election

There are three openings for the board of education for St. Peter's School that will be voted on after each Mass on April 23. Candidates for the board must submit their application/petition, signed by at least 10 parishioners or parents of school children, to the principal no later than Tuesday, March 7.

'Chapter Two' opens

The PM&L Theater group will open its latest production of Neal Simon's 'Chapter Two' at 8:30 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 10. The opening night performance will be followed by a champagne party.

Easter Parade

Antioch Parks and Recreation will be holding the annual Easter Parade one week early this year. The parade will be 'hopping' down Main St. in Antioch on March 18, one week before Easter, about 10 a.m. Since the parade will be on March 18, Antioch Parks and Recreation has decided to have a combined theme. The parade will contain both an Easter and St. Patrick's Day Theme. Anyone who wishes to enter the parade must call the parks and recreation office at (312)395-2160.

Zone hearing

There will be a hearing in front of the Lake County Zoning Board of Appeals at the Antioch Twp. Hall, at 1:30 p.m., on the application of Antioch Tire Inc., relative to a request to vary the terms of Article Three, Section III of the Lake County Zoning Ordinance to reduce the setback requirement from 30 feet to 15 feet for the installation of a sign measuring three and one half feet in height by 20 feet in width. The subject property is located on the south side of Illinois Rte. 173 and approximately 650 feet west of Deep Lake Rd.

Fire inspector's job weighed for village

Antioch might get a full-time fire inspector. The position has been recommended by a 9-1 vote of the Environmental Committee chaired by Al Little.

Exactly how the position will be filled and by whom will be resolved by the village board and Antioch Fire Protection Dist.

A contract service may be hired or it may be decided to create a new full-time position.

Fire inspections are now conducted on a time-available basis by members of the volunteer department. Most of these are in the summer months and, often, there is no follow-up.

With the continued growth of the village regular fire inspections are regarded as necessary for public safety and to help maintain the village's fire insurance rating.

Heavenly gambling

Over 600 people gathered at VFW Hall on North Ave. for a bit of heavenly gambling with profits going towards renovation of St. Ignatius Church on Main St., which was built over a

Village loses no time in annex

by GLORIA DAVIS

The Antioch Village Board wasted no time in taking action after the Lake County Forest Preserve withdrew its proposal to purchase 2,500 acres off Deep Lake Rd. in Antioch Township.

After the county dropped its injunction against the village, holding up the village's annexation of 1,550 acres included in the forest preserve proposal, the village called an emergency meeting and made the annexation unanimously official.

The remaining 1,000 acres that included the Red Wing-Deer Lake areas, are officially off the forest preserve purchasing list for the time being, at the meeting were the purchase proposals were withdrawn, several forest preserve commissioners left the door open for a possible future acquisition of some portion of the land.

This was a culmination of a race for land between the county and the village which was fought with several emergency meetings called by both governing bodies. Antioch which has been working with the 1,500 acres or 18 months on the annexation held a 6 a.m. meeting when it heard of the forest preserve acquisition plan.

The special forest preserve meeting, set to only consider the acquisition of the Red Wing marsh area, was called with Antioch area residents loudly opposing the county purchase.

County board member Jim Fields, who is also Antioch Twp. Supervisor, had been one of several civic leaders present the previous evening at a meeting that filled the Antioch Civic Center, when plans to crowd the forest preserve meeting with dissenters to the Red Wind marsh acquisition were made.

Fields had hoped only for the acquisition proposal to be sent back to committee but was pleased at county board member Mike Graham's motion for complete withdrawal. Fields and fellow Dist. 4 county member Charlotte Keisgen have been vociferous in their opposition to the forest preserve acquisition of any more property in Dist. 4 since the purchase of Gander Mountain, a million dollar purchase of land in the northwest corner of the district years ago. The forest preserve district has yet to do anything with that property except "rope it off".

Engagement

Sacco-Peterson

Maryanne Sacco of Los Angeles and Keith Peterson, formerly of Antioch and now residing in Tunis, Tunisia, have announced their engagement. The ceremony will take place in the village of Mqabba on the island Republic of Malta on May 6.

The bride-to-be is the daughter of Carmen and Leonard Sacco of Thousand Oaks, Calif. She holds a bachelor's degree in fine arts from International University in San Diego, and a master's degree in occupational therapy from the University of Southern California. She is employed as an occupational therapist in Tunis.

The groom-to-be is the son of Hjordi Peterson of New Port Richey, Fla. He is a 1968 graduate of Antioch High School, holds a bachelor of science degree and a master's degree in journalism from Northern Illinois University in DeKalb. He is a foreign service officer, and currently serving as the Assistant Cultural Affairs Officer at the American Cultural Center in Tunis.

The couple will make their home in Tunis after a month-long honeymoon.

Along The Way With Annie Mae

Emmons students and staff were happy to see Supt. Jill Ballock return to school last week. Jill was out for awhile with a broken leg. Seems there was enough slippery ice out there for her to slip and zingo, she was out of commission for a little bit.

Anyone who has been around Antioch for a few years is acquainted with Jane Crancer's art work. Jane used to head Antioch Community High School's art department until she retired. She has been pursuing her own artistic endeavors since then, even to doing some work for area law enforcement agencies.

She now has an exhibit of her original "Carousel Horses" displayed at the new Comfort Inn on Rte. 173 in the lobby.

Since many people from Antioch have for years played on baseball teams at the Waterhole down on Rte. 173 in Salem, they might be interested to know that the Waterhole has been taken over by Antioch resident Arden Hansen. Arden, who used to own the Pistakee Marina, is busy with a little remodeling right now but he hopes to be open sometime in March. Yes, the baseball teams will again be going full force come this spring.

See where Charles and Betty Hope's "little girl", Jeanette, a lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force, has now completed the indoctrination for medical service officers at Sheppard Air Force Base in Texas. Jeanette graduated from ACHS six years ago and she went on to graduate from Millikin University at Decatur, in 1986.

A welcome to our world goes to Adam Blaine Ring the apple of his grandparent's eye, Geraldine Ring and Gwen and Casey Luloffs.

Have you seen the great remodeling that's going on at the Vault Restaurant on Main St.?

Uncovering those gorgeous huge original cupola windows on the north side of the building after tearing down the building that was the old phone company, is a decorator's (and historian's) dream.

Chamber, Las Vegas keeps Antioch hopping

by GLORIA DAVIS

Antioch is well known for the entire village turning out to support any and all worthwhile causes.

On Saturday, the Antioch Chamber of Commerce and Industry held its' biggest meeting of the year, the annual installation dinner dance, at the Landmark Restaurant.

At the same time across town St. Ignatius Church was holding its' fundraiser, a Las Vegas night.

Both events were huge successes with the Chamber dinner drawing the biggest crowd in years to welcome its first woman president, Joanne Linker of J.J. Blinker's.

1988 Chamber head Stan Luta passed the gavel over to Linker after sating the large increase in the Chambers' membership under his administration.

Installed as Chamber directors were Roger Sorenson of Sorenson Ins., Jeff Blum of T.S. Boogies and Kevin Schouder of Raymond Chevrolet.

Those that attended the Chamber dinner enjoyed a delicious dinner of prime rib or chicken, as the perused the warm new decor of the Landmark, formerly the County House.

Candidates for the spring election dotted the room as Larry Hansen and Marilyn Shineflug, village board candidates, were seen chatting with Debbie Hartokolis and Al Little respectively.

Mayor Raymond Toft, who had cut short a Florida vacation for the annexation proceedings and the Chamber dinner was there as was his opponent for Antioch's top seat, Bob Wilton.

Although the dinner was followed by a Ceejay for dancing, a mass exodus was made with many heading for the VFW hall on North Ave. and the gambling tables.

Familiar faces like Dennis Johnson and Mike Haley could be seen dealing the cards as money was being raised for St. Ignatius.

Special students

I would like to give a very special mention to the following students who made the "straight A honor roll" for the second nine weeks at the Antioch Upper Grade School. To qualify, students cannot receive any grade in any subject less than an A—therefore achieving a percent 4.0 average.

Congratulations to sixth graders Alyssa Bartelson, Beth Desbiens, Katie Fetting, Tricia Keefe, Rebecca Liddle and Leah Ludden.

Seventh graders - Karen Anderson, Elizabeth Klaus, Marcy Scheurer and Marita Wentzek.

Eighth graders - Charlotte Berger, Lilly Gerhard and Carrie Holbo.

Great job, kids!

All reading classes at AUGS will participate in Great America's 600 Minute Reading Club. Any student participating and completing 600 minutes of reading between Jan. 29 and March 17 will receive a one-day free pass to Great America.

The AUGS math department would like to thank all the students who participated in the St. Jude's Hospital Math-a-Thon. They collected $2,414.01. Special mention goes to these seven students who all collected over $100 each:

Rebecca Liddle, Nick Rugiero, Cherie Cannon, Elizabeth Shehorn, Allen Olson, Josh Pompeo and Sabrina Cox.

New preschool teacher

Due to an increase in enrollment, the Village of Antioch hired a fourth teacher for the Monday/Wednesday class at Camp Crayon Preschool. The new teacher is Julie Groh. Of course, the youngsters call her "Miss Julie". "Miss" Ardeen, "Miss" Pat and "Miss" Marie would like to welcome her aboard.

The teachers at Camp Crayon would like to thank Rick Franstein of the Antioch Fire Dept. for his recent visit to the school. He discussed safety procedures with the children and stressed the dangers of playing with matches. He also taught them about the 911 emergency number. After the talk each youngster received a fireman's badge, making them official deputies of fire safety.

ALGS

The Antioch Lower Grade School PTO is sponsoring a family portrait day on Friday, Feb. 24, and Saturday, Feb. 29. These portrait days are open to everyone, not just those with children at the grade school. The cost of a 10- by 13-inch family portrait is only $5. Additional photos may be purchased if wanted, but there is no obligation. Appointments are needed. If you are interested, call Sue Beinecke at (312)395-8063 or Linda Halpin at (312)395-4986 to make an appointment.

Emmons School

Kindergarten through eighth grades at Emmons School had an assembly presented by a snake expert. Twelve people from the audience were actually brave enough to participate in the program by holding a 40-pound boa constrictor. The

Hometown Goodies

Parents at ALGS are asked to please continue saving Campbell Soup labels and send them to school as they accumulate.

Jonathan Earl Slightham

Paul and Shirley Kitto would like to say congratulations to Gary and Darlene Slightham on the birth of their son. Jonathan Earl came into the world on Jan. 17, weighing 8 pounds, 6 ounces. Three-year-old Annie will help mom and dad give the new baby a lot of TLC. Congratulations!

program helped alleviate some of the misconceptions about snakes.

On Feb. 17, the Emmons students in grades four through eight will be engaged in the "Scripps Howard Spelling Bee". The individual classroom champs will battle it out in the gym at 1:15 p.m.

AARP Valentine's party

On Feb. 14 the Antioch Area AARP, Chapter 387, will host a Valentine party at the Antioch Senior Center. A king and queen will be crowned and prizes will be awarded. A catered lunch will be enjoyed during the festivities—I wonder if they have room for one more hungry person at the table? Etc., etc., etc.

According to Sally Hiller, a person knows it is time to purchase new eye glasses when they run their old ones over in the driveway.

It is always nice knowing that I am not the only forgetful human being on the face of this earth. There are others out there. Am I right, Betty Werhane? I understand you responded a week late that your daughter, Joan, would be going to Jenny's birthday party. Joan had, in fact, been there the week before and had a great time. Better late than never, right? Could your absent-mindedness have to do with the fact that you are due to be a new granny any day? Remember to call us when the blessed event takes place.

Hello again, Gary Grohl! All I can say is, that was quite a snowmobile story—better luck next time.

Since Carolyn Hammond stopped writing this column, she has been very busy hitting the books. Carolyn is preparing for a degree in teaching. Good luck to you, Carolyn, in this challenging endeavor. Call us when you attain your goal and get a big congratulations from this column.

The following people have birthdays in February: Matthew Schultz, Missy Olenick, Pat Smercz, Chris Nicolay, Debbie Galdino, Matt Friel and Jerry Oleksy. Happy birthday to you all.

I would like to say hello to a few people in hopes they call me with some news. Hello, Judy Fechtner. Are you still listening to those opera records? Hell, Denzel Bennett, Pat and Bill Lepal and Jon Ullmans. Call me soon, and remember to "Ask for the Lizard!"

Sequoits win twice, ready for weekend

by PETER RECHENBERG

The Antioch boys basketball team will have big test this weekend as they face North Suburban Conference foes Libertyville at home on Friday and then travel to North Chicago on Saturday to battle the second place Warhawks. Tipoff for both games is scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

Head Coach Jeff Dresser sees this weekend as a test for his team. "This weekend will tell if we've come together as a team," Dresser said. "We've played well in our last four ball games and we only lost by three at Libertyville, so we know we can play with them. We beat North Chicago last time so they'll be ready for us."

The Sequoits went 2-0 this past weekend and they improved their record to 10-11 by routing Mundelein 72-58 and whipping Lake Forest 72-57.

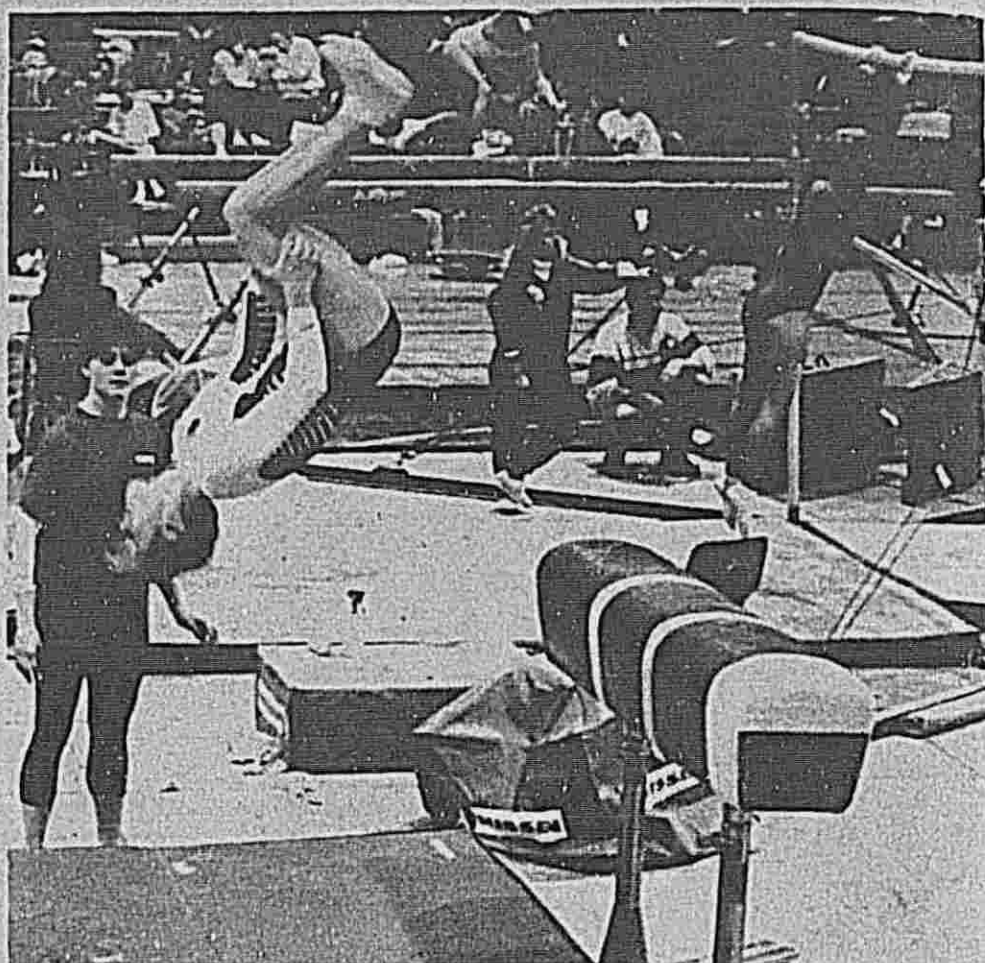

The Sequoits took control of Friday's game in the first quarter as they outscored Mundelein 21-0. Four Antioch players scored in double figures as Ryan Coskey led the attack with 20 points. Scott Gooch scored 15 points, Matt Pelland scored 13 points and Jeff Becker chipped in with 10 points. Dresser was happy to see the balanced scoring. "It's good to have different people scoring so we don't have to rely on one person all the time," Dresser said. "Mundelein just dug themselves a big hole and they couldn't get out of it," Dresser said.

Saturday's win over Lake Forest was not as easy as the Scouts overcame the Sequoits eight point halftime lead to take a one point third quarter lead. The Sequoits came back and outscored the Scouts 25-11 in the final quarter to give them a 13 point victory. The Sequoits were 9 for 12 from the free throw line in the fourth quarter and Dresser was happy to see that. "Those free throws were very important," Dresser said. "We played very well in the fourth quarter instead of just standing around."

Dresser credited Lake Forest with a funny defense that gave the Sequoits problems in the third quarter. "They came out in a funny defense and we couldn't make the proper adjustments," Dresser said. "During the quarter break we made some adjustments and everything we tried worked."

The Sequoits once again had balanced scoring as four players were in double figures. Matt Pelland scored 18 points and he owned the boards as he grabbed 19 rebounds. Ryan Coskey scored 17 points while Scott Gooch added 15 points and Brad Nauman chipped in with 10. "We had good balanced scoring and we really shot the ball well all weekend," Dresser said.

Rockets will get to know Ventures with two games

Richmond-Burton's boys basketball team will try and make some waves in the Big Eight Conference when the Rockets face Valley Lutheran twice.

The two tangle in a Big Eight Conference clash Feb. 10 at Richmond before the Rockets travel South to face the Ventures in St. Charles Feb. 15. In between, the Rockets are at McHenry County rival Marian Central Feb. 11 and host Burlington Central Feb. 12 in the last busy week of the regular season.

"I expect them to play tough man-to-man defense. They're a good club. They've beaten Harvard twice," Richmond-Burton Head Coach Scott Brunswick said.

The Rockets are trying to gain some late-season momentum against the Ventures. Richmond sunk to 3-7 in the Big Eight Conference and 8-11 overall with a 70-51 loss to Huntley.

"We had a bad first quarter. We just could not get anything going," Brunswick said of the loss.

Richmond trailed the host Rockets 19-6 after one and had to play catch-up after that.

"We never did develop our outside shooting and we missed some crimples under the basket," Brunswick said.

Huntley led 29-25 at halftime as the Rockets tried to rally. But the Redskins started the second half with the same strong play as the first with a 17-7 romp for the third quarter.

Richmond was led by Adam Gardner's 13 points and Roger Hauri's 12.

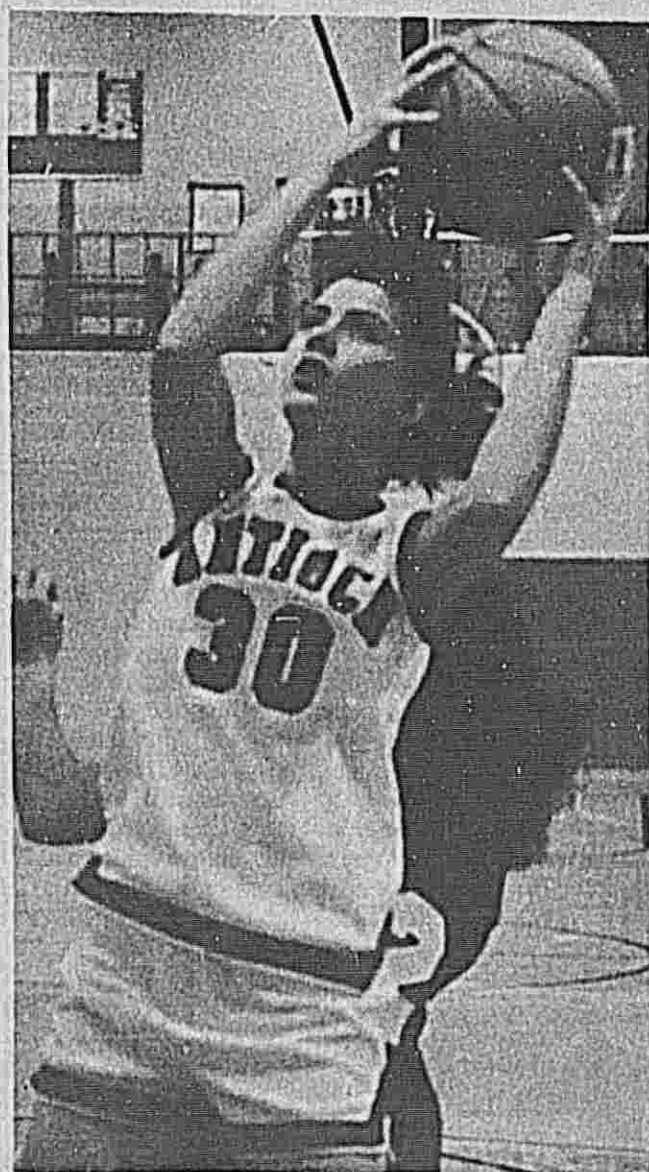

Tedd Ream was the main thorn in the Rockets side as he led Huntley with 20 points.

Park will get new gazebo

Rotary Park in downtown Antioch is going to get a new look. It will be a gazebo.

The 12-foot by 12-foot pre-fabricated, octagon-shaped structure will have a directory of downtown stores. It also will serve as a location for children to visit the Easter Bunny and Santa Claus.

Plans are to have the gazebo in place for the Easter season. The park is north of Brands and Nuts and B.J.'s Fashions.

Academic team competes

In Antioch High School's Academic team's second year, the number of competitions in which they participated has increased greatly. There is now competition at the conference level and the conference tournament will be on Feb. 25. They are again participating in the National Knowledge Open and ended up to 1038th out of 1450 high schools in the fall competition (54th out of 69 in Illinois).

Schools from across the nation, Canada, Korea and Guam participated. The students are looking forward to the spring edition.

New competitions upcoming for this year include: Maine East Invitation, Stars 2000 (on the computer), Northern Illinois Masonic Bowl. Other competitions are:

Stevenson Invitational and State Tournament.

New fire pumper will be reviewed

Purchase of a new pumper for the Antioch Fire Dept. will be discussed at a special meeting on Monday, Feb. 13. Making the review will be members of the village board Finance and Safety committees. Meeting time is 7 p.m. at the fire station, 835 Holbeck Dr.

Also to be considered will be the purchase of new air packs for firemen. The current one-half hour packs used by firemen are to be replaced by those with up to one hour of air at a higher pressure.

Shopping mall will get landmark sign

Antioch Shopping Plaza at 456 to 510 Orchard St. will be identified by a landmark sign.

It will be a 170-square-foot sign 20 feet tall and 12 feet wide.

Approval for the sign came this week with the granting of a variance by the village board.

Under existing zoning regulations, a single sign for the shopping plaza is limited to 70 square feet.

"But there could be another sign of equal size 50 feet away," Public Works Director Tim Wells said. "Altogether there could have been up to four signs. Rather than this many, it was agreed one large one would be more effective."

The property was purchased by new owners two years ago and is now in the process of getting additional tenants and a new image. The plaza is among the village's oldest shopping complexes.

Center pact to allow AARP

Unless some changes are made in a contract for operation of the Antioch Senior Center, 818 Holbeck Dr., Mayor Raymond Toft has vowed not to sign it.

Catholic Charities operates the center, providing personnel, some services and organizes programs for members. The village provides all utilities.

The arrangement has existed for eight years. This week the village board was asked to consider a contract with Catholic Charities. It will name the organization as the managing agent, provide for a report every 90 days, a 60-day cancellation clause and be for four years.

"I'll not sign this agreement as it exists," the mayor said at a Feb. 6 meeting. "Use of the center was promised two days a month to the American Association of Retired Persons. This group provided most of the tables and chairs for the center. I promised these people long ago they would never be kicked out."

Toft said the center has operated for eight years without any type of formal agreement. He said this arrangement should be allowed to continue.

Trustee Donald Amund-

sen disagreed. "This formalizes the arrangement," he said. "It makes everything clear for all parties. I favor something in writing."

Toft said Catholic Charities will be asked to days a month for the AARP chapter. With this change he hinted the contract will be signed.

Police receive praise

Antioch police have come in for some high praise from a prominent business.

It stems from the apprehension of a person involved in vandalism and tire thefts at an Antioch auto dealership last fall.

An estimated $20,000 worth of damage was done to new autos at Raymond Chevrolet and Oldsmobile, 120 Rte. 173. It was done by a disgruntled customer.

Through diligence work, police eventually arrested a Round Lake Beach man.

This week a letter of commendation from the dealership was read at the village board meeting.

Second annexation covers error

Just to be on the safe side, the Antioch Village Board this week adopted a second ordinance annexing 1,450 acres on Deep Lake Rd. known as the Redwing Marsh-Deer Lake area.

The annexation initially was approved at a special village board meeting at 6 a.m. on Jan. 31. The action was taken prior to a special meeting of the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. later that day for the purpose of annexing 2,500 acres of township land, including the marsh area.

As a result of the village's action the Forest Preserve Dist. withdrew its acquisition plans.

Readoption of the ordinance was more than a formality, Village Atty. Kenneth Clark said.

"The first time we adopted this it was unclear if all parties concerned received the required 10 days' notice," he said. "They were sent by mail and, theoretically, the time limit was met. Tonight's action covers us just in case," the attorney said.

Following the meeting the board went into executive session with Clark. Although the possibility of pending litigation on the annexation is remote, Clark took the occasion to acquaint trustees with this possibility.

Forest Preserve Dist. members have become resigned to losing the acreage. Homeowners protested and found an ally in Antioch Twp. Sup. Jim Fields, who also fought the land takeover.

Antioch Atty. Robert Long last week filed an injunction against the village board challenging the legality of the 6 a.m. meeting and mailing of notices. He said this was done to protect the village from costly legal action by the Forest Preserve Dist. He noted the tract is almost as large as present-day Antioch. Long's challenge was dismissed.

Just to be on the safe side, the Antioch Village Board this week adopted for a second time an ordinance annexing 1,550 acres on Deep Lake Rd. known as the Red Wing Marsh-Deer Lake area.

Five Antioch wrestlers aim for state meet bids

Although Antioch's wrestling team fell short of its goal to make their team regionals, the Sequoits did have several bright spots at the Warren regional invitational.

Five Sequoit wrestlers advanced to the Barrington sectional meet for individuals Feb. 11.

Advancing included Matt Salemme at 171 pounds, Dave Sheppard at 135, Tom Lahn at 145, Ed Maginn at 189 and Jason Hyerdall at 112 pounds.

While Waukegan East and Waukegan West battled it out for the team title, Warren led area teams and Round Lake, Grayslake and Grant all had wrestling champions at the Warren regional.

The Blue Devils finished third with 131.5 points. West edged East 152-149 for the top honors. Round Lake was fourth with 99 points, followed by Grayslake's 86, Antioch's 83 and Grant's 35 points.

"I thought we would place a little higher, but it was a tough regional," Warren Coach Mark Tiffany said.

Mike Frecking of Warren continued his unbeaten record at 152 pounds with a 2:04 fall over Tony Villaholbus of Waukegan East.

Tiffany said Frecking's record was never seriously challenged in the regional.

In addition to Frecking, other Warren wrestlers who advanced to the individual sectional round included third-place finishers Kevin Sullivan at 125, Tony Moran at 140 pounds and Jeff Foss at 160.

Eric Adler placed second at 189, losing to Wayne Sigassus of Waukegan West in a 5:38 fall.

Round Lake had two champions at the lower weight divisions. Jeff Pratt defeated Grayslake freshman Curt Onstad 9-3. Jason Gilley won at 112 in a decision over Fonzele King of Waukegan East.

Dave Minjares earned a second-place finish for the Panthers at 119 when he lost a close 1-0 decision to Elvin Gurena of Waukegan East. The third place match in that class was also exciting as Tony Pitonz of Grant won a 6-5 decision over Warren's Ken Chumbley.

Scott Collins also finished second for Round Lake at 125 pounds. Sullivan defeated Randy Melton of Grant 9-3 in that weight class.

Don Beclam of Grant defeated Brian Rainer of Round Lake 4-0 in overtime for third at 130 pounds.

Grayslake was led by champions in the middle weights as five wrestlers qualified for sectionals.

Jeff Walls defeated Dave Sheppard of Antioch 4-3 for the 135 pound title.

Ryan Geist took third at 140 and Che Kearby was third at 165. Heavyweight Jim Rijek ousted Round Lake's Louis Tovar for third place.

Mundelein, Antioch gymnasts qualify for Fremd sectional Mundelein High School gymnastics Coach John Mayer knew what his Mustangs would have to do before the Lake Forest gymnastics regional.

"We will have to have the best meet in our life," Mayer said.

And that they did, scoring 139.9 points to finish in second place behind Libertyville. Antioch finished a strong third with 131.05 points, topping a team goal of 130. Host Lake Forest was fourth and Carmel fifth with 122.8.

Kelcey Sullivan and Michelle Strachn both qualified for sectionals for the Mustangs and will be competing at Fremd Feb. 11.

Sue Ramig of Antioch finished in a tie for second in the vault with a 9.45 with Strachn fourth. Jamie Stewart of Antioch was fifth.

In uneven parallel bars, Sullivan was second with 8.95; Stewart was fourth and Ramig fifth.

Ramig was third on balance beam with Stewart tied for fourth.

Ramig, the conference champ in the all-around, placed third in the event with Sullivan fourth and Strachn fifth.

The Mustangs were coming off a strong showing in the North Suburban Conference meet, where they finished second to Libertyville, which ran away with the team title.

The battle was for second place and Mundelein edged Antioch 131 to 130.4. Lake Forest was next with 128.6, Stevenson fourth at 124 followed by Niles North and Fenton.

The NSC meet showing capped off a second-half of the season for MHS. "We had a very strong second half. We had girls injured in the first half but we came through when we needed to," Mayer said.

Mundelein's Strachn and Sullivan led the way going into the regionals. Strachn was floor-exercise champ with a 9.4.

Lisa Carey took a second place finish in the vault, Sullivan and Strachn tied for fifth on the balance beam and Sullivan was fourth on the uneven parallel bars.

Easter and St. Pat share their parade

Antioch Parks and Recreation will be holding the annual Easter Parade at 10 a.m. on Saturday, March 18. This year's parade will have a double theme of St. Patrick's Day and Easter.

The parade will start from the Antioch High School parking lot down Main St. to the municipal parking lot on Toft St., where there will be an Easter Candy Hunt for children four to 10 years of age.

Anyone who wishes to enter the parade must call the parks and recreation office at (312)395-2160.

After the Easter candy hunt, children, teens and adults, both men and women, are invited to participate in an Easter bonnet contest. The bonnets can be turned in to the chamber office on Main St. any time. Entries will be taken at the chamber office until one hour after the St. Patrick's/Easter parade.

Children will be able to visit with the Easter Bunny at the gazebo in the Rotary Park on Main St. from 3 to 7 p.m. on Thursday and Friday, Feb. 16, 17, 23 and 24; from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on March 18 and 25; and from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday, March 19.

For more information, call Antioch Parks and Recreation at (312)395-2160 or the Antioch Chamber of Commerce at (312)395-2233.

Brush-up on test skills

ACE That Test!, a session on test-taking skills for junior high school students, will meet on Saturday, Feb. 11 from 10:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the College of Lake County Grayslake campus. The cost is $5. The session is part of CLC's EXPLORE! series of Saturday mini-classes for junior high school students scheduled during the college's 20th anniversary year.

Instructor Jean Brady will help students discover test-taking skills that can help improve test scores. Topics will include how to relax, how to use test time wisely, memory techniques, and when to make an educated guess.

For more information or to register, call CLC's Continuing Education Division at (312)223-3616.

Historic Rustic Manor to be auctioned off

On Feb. 18, Gurnee will lose what many consider to be an important part of its history.

Contents of the Rustic Manor restaurant will be auctioned off to the highest bidder beginning at 11 a.m.

at the site. "It's the things left from the fire" Lee Trybom, owner, said.

Sign of the past?

The Rustic Manor restaurant's covered wagon, which many a newcomer to Gurnee used as a landmark, will be among the items to be auctioned Feb. 18. Contents of the historic restaurant will be on the block in an auction conducted by Rich Diamond of Lake Villa. The auction at the restaurant will begin at 11 a.m.

90 more acres seek Antioch annexation

Antioch will grow by another 90 acres with the receipt of petitions for annexation from three property owners near the intersection of Rte. 173 and Deep Lake Rd.

They follow the annexation earlier this month of 1,550 acres on Deep Lake Rd. known as the Redwing Marsh-Deer Lake property that was also wanted by the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist.

"That annexation made the village contiguous to these properties," said Public Works Director Tim Wells. The three properties are:

1. 30 acres at the northeast intersection of Rte. 173 and Deep Lake Rd. owned by Spero Hortis.

2. 40 acres about 500 yards south of the first property owned by Casimer Yatoust. It also is known as the Strawberry Farm.

3. 20 acres immediately west of this property held in a trust by a Chicago bank.

Action has already begun by the village to annex the property by notifying the affected taxing bodies.

Next will be a public hearing.

The annexation most likely will wait until after the April election. Residents remain qualified to cast ballots in the area of original jurisdiction for 60 days prior to an election. Even if Antioch did annex the 90 acres, residents would not be considered part of the village for voting purposes in the upcoming election.

The Rustic Manor, a Gurnee landmark for more than 40 years, was hit hard by two natural disasters in 1986 and 1987. First came the floods which wrecked havoc in the fall. Less than a month after a portion of the restaurant was rebuilt, fire on an early January, 1987 day destroyed most of what was left.

"We will remember all our loyal customers who stayed with us right until the end," Trybom said.

The auction will be handled by family friend Rich Diamond of Greater Chicago Auction Co. of Lake Villa.

Among the items which will be on the auction block include the covered wagon which seemed to almost greet people coming to Gurnee from the west; the Surrey and the two full size horses with complete tack and carved painted Indians, all Gurnee relics, will be auctioned.

"So many kind people have asked us about all the beautiful antiques that made the Rustic Manor the place it was. That was the reason we decided to sell at auction. We would like to have our friends have something to remember the Rustic Manor by," the Tryboms said in a press release.

Lee Trybom said the facility had been the site of many vandalism attempts over the last few months. Those involved have been caught by the authorities.

"There may be still something that can be worked out," Trybom said.

If not, the building will be torn down about three weeks after the auction.

Plans had called for a motel to be developed at the site but the plans fell through when negotiations for special consideration from the state's floodplain restrictions dragged on.

"It's a good piece of property and Gurnee is booming," Lee Trybom said.

The Tryboms said they will enjoy seeing the treasures at other peoples businesses and homes.

PUD changes are added

Two changes were made this week to strengthen Antioch's Planned Unit Development (PUD) ordinance.

Under the first revision, an on-site inspection of a project will be made by village trustees, engineer prior to final approval. This will be done at the convenience of the developer.

"Purpose of this," said Public Works Director Tim Wells, "is to have as many people as possible view the project prior to allowing final plans to be drafted." During the visit village officials will view street layouts, location of trees, grading and topography. "Sometimes the slight shifting of a street or a new grade is all that will be needed to save some of the trees or some natural characteristic," Wells said.

Approved for the second time was a portion of the ordinance calling for a new agricultural zone. This allows any annexed farm land in excess of five acres to remain in the lower-taxed agricultural class or be upgraded to the R-1 residential zone.

Depot St. will get facelifting

Depot St. in Antioch will get a facelift. It will be widened and resurfaced from Main Street to Deep Lake Rd. In the process an S curve will be modified and sidewalks added to the south side.

But the $1.2 million project won't begin until 1991.

Money for engineering the improvement was approved earlier this month by the Chain O' Lakes Council of Mayors. A federal grant will pay 75 percent of the cost and the village the remaining 25 percent.

By the time new grant money for construction becomes available a new formula may be in effect, Mayor Raymond Toft said.

Sequoia bowlers heading to state

Antioch High School's bowling team continued its post-season success story, winning its own sectional and advancing to the state tournament.

The Sequoias finished with 5,019 points while Warren was second with 4,380. Round Lake was third with 4,307, Stevenson fourth at 3,730. Grayslake topped Grant for fifth, 3,722 to 3,508.

Antioch's state qualifiers for the meet at Bloomington include Deanna Hallwas, who finished first at the sectional at Antioch Lakes Bowl and had a high game of 241 and a three-game series of 604.

Dixon leads the team qualifiers heading into the state meet with 5,247 points in its sectional.

The 12 sectional champions are joined by four Chicago Public schools.

Also qualifying for the sectional was Connie Hoth of Warren.

Site of new post office

Sign along Cedar Ave. in Lake Villa identifies location of new Lake Villa Post Office. "It (sign) merely tells people what will be built on the site and why there is no trespassing," said Postmaster Walter Dickow. "Now, all that is needed is a couple of million dollars," he said of turning plans into reality. He estimates construction will come in the 1990 or 1991 federal budget year.

Rapid development causes need for roadway thought

2010 PROPOSED EXPRESSWAY NETWORK AND CORRIDORS OF THE FUTURE

NOTE: Facility locations are general and do not represent alignments.

Corridors of the future

Rapid development in currently undeveloped areas can quickly make the land for needed expressways prohibitively expensive or otherwise impossible to obtain. Proposed by the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission, Corridors of the Future are not being recommended for expressway construction until possibly after the year 2010. The intention is to preserve the option of constructing expressways in these corridors by conducting studies to determine specific alignment and design details, and by purchasing strategic land in the proposed corridor.

Counties. The group works closely with the Illinois Dept. of Commerce and Community Affairs, Office of Tourism, from which it receives partial funding.

Forest Preserve reverses position, kills acquisition

by JOE WINTER

In another change of position, the board of the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist. voted 18-5 not to acquire a 1,500-acre parcel of land known as the Countryside addition/Lakewood extension in Fremont Twp.

The board had just prior to that action voted down 13-10 a motion to refer the matter to committee for study, as well as issue to municipalities neighboring the area a notice that they intend to acquire the property.

A memorandum from the chairperson would not be legally binding to ask that other governing bodies not act during the board study period, counsel for the board said. However, a notice of intent to acquire would have accomplished this purpose, even if the board did not formally enact an acquisition. Also, commissioners noted that this notice of intent would not have committed the board to an acquisition.

This was the second time in about a week that the board reversed their position to acquire land. Earlier, the board decided not to acquire a parcel near Antioch, the Redwing Marsh/Deer Lake area.

Pete Tekampe, one of the property owners involved, told the board prior to its decisions that he could not meet with a committee of the Village of Wauconda until Feb. 22. Tekampe is a spokesperson for a group of landowners in Fremont Twp. who have been actively opposing the Forest Preserve acquisition, and their group "would not sneak in an annexation" done by the village, Tekampe said.

Comm. Matthew Miholic charged that the Forest Preserve Dist. is proceeding contrary to an acquisition plan it had set up. A part of this plan dictated that all future acquisitions would be reviewed by a planner for the board, Miholic said, adding that this review had not taken place with the acquisition they were discussing. Miholic suggested rejecting the entire plan, if it is not going to be followed.

Comm. John Balen said he was tired of seeing the board back down whenever people complained about proposed actions. "We didn't just pick this out of the air," he said concerning the proposal discussed at this meeting. Balen also said that commissioners can't please everyone with their decisions. "Some homes in this county are going to be taken. Some farms are going to be taken," he said.

Comm. Charolette Kiesgen disagreed with Balen's assertions concerning suing for acquisition. "If they are not picked out of the air," she asked of sites, "why are they shaped like dog hind legs?"

An exception to the usual procedures for acquisition was being made concerning the property of a county board member, whose land in Fremont Twp. was not being acquired, according to Comm. Donald Strenger. Comments made by other commissioners identified this board member as John Reindl, who lives at 22846 Rte. 176, Mundelein.

Comm. Deloris Alexrod said that acceptance of a special meeting call was not done at the beginning of the session, adding that the meeting was "a procedural quagmire," as commissioners debated for several minutes over what the proper wording of the motion should be.

CLC to host radio talk show to Soviet Union

Lake County will have a direct line to Kiev in the Soviet Union when the College of Lake County hosts a live broadcast of National Public Radio station WBEZ on Monday, Feb. 13 from noon to 1:30 p.m. in the Auditorium at the Grayslake campus. The program is free and open to the public.

The college will host the WBEZ program "Midday with Sondra Gair" for one of the twice-monthly broadcasts to the Soviet Union, allowing students, faculty and community members to communicate directly with Soviet citizens.

Gair's award-winning Midday program airs Monday through Friday on WBEZ (91.5 FM) and focuses on international events, as she interviews correspondents, policy experts and world leaders and gives listeners the opportunity to call in with their own comments and questions.

In June of 1987, she made radio history by establishing live on-air telephone dialogues with Soviet officials, commentators and citizens in Moscow and Kiev through a bi-monthly telephone hook-up.

Gair's colleague in the Soviet Union for the CLC broadcast is Alexei Gubenko, the chief political correspondent for Radio Kiev. The topic of discussion for the Feb. 13 program will be Afghanistan and the fate of that war-torn country when the Soviet troops complete their pull-out, which is scheduled for Feb. 15.

Gair and Gubenko will both be broadcasting with several guest panelists; their names were not available at press time, those attending the program will be able to hear the entire broadcast and will have an opportunity to ask questions of the Soviets on the air.

The WBEZ broadcast was scheduled as part of the college's observance of National Community College month in February and in the interest of providing access to international education. For more information, call the CLC Public Relations office at (312)223-6601 ext. 245.

Playful puppies

Bill and Sherry Linning, owners of Bark 'N Town Kennels in Ingleside, have been busy breeding puppies this year. The Linnings are showing off their 10-week-old German Shorthairs. They also have a two-week-old litter of Dalmatian puppies and plan to sell both litters. —Photo by Tom Wolfe.

Computer manager succeeds with kennel

by KIMBERLY BOLTON

It took less than two months for Sherry Linning to go from managing computer operations at a community college to running her own dog kennel at a full capacity of 40 dogs.

Linning, owner of Bark 'N Town Kennels in Ingleside, had no previous experience with animals except for owning her own pets, but had always thought it would be fun to run a kennel. As she and husband, Bill, who is the director of finance at Niles Twp. High School, were planning their October of '86 wedding and shopping for a new home, they found a real estate advertisement for Bark 'N Town Kennels. They didn't think they'd be able to finance the buy, which included the kennel, two houses and 13 acres of land, but decided to try to find some way to work it out.

To Sherry's surprise, the Linnings were able to make the purchase and moved from Des Plaines to Ingleside in December of '86. The kennel was full by Christmas.

Linning said she was "hysterical" when she and her husband took over the kennel. "Working with dogs didn't bother me at all," she said. But added that learning the technical parts of the job—the feeding problems, health problems and disinfecting of the kennels—was the difficult part. She learned by reading every book on animal care she could find.

The American Boarding Kennel Assn. was a tremendous help to Linning in answering her questions over the phone and at the conventions she attended.

According to Linning, animals are scared when they're taken out of the environment they're used to and brought to a kennel. The toughest part of her job is helping them to get over their fears of abandonment.

"Dogs are family. Customers treat them like family and we recognize that," she said, adding that they eat very little and have to be babied when they arrive at a kennel.

Not only do the Linnings board dogs, they also board cats, ferrets, and do grooming. Their customer base is comprised of people who are moving and need a place for their pets to stay for a while and people who are going away on business or vacation.

The typical television nightmare played in many shows where a dog dies while its owner is away, has twice occurred for the Linnings. One dog, 16, died of old age. The other was much more frightening for the kennel owners. A three-year-old dog died of a bacterial infection the first day of its owner's vacation. It had to be frozen (the Linnings have a special freezer for this purpose) until the owners returned. The Linnings offered to pay for an autopsy which revealed that the dog had been infected prior to his arrival at the kennel.

Besides boarding other people's pets, the Linnings have their own pure-bred Dalmatian and German Shorthair which they use for breeding. Currently they have 10-week-old German Shorthairs and two-week-old Dalmatian puppies which will be sold.

The Linnings are planning to construct a new building for kennels on their property. In it they will include more exercise space for the dogs and more distance between the dog and cat areas since cats get upset when they hear dogs barking close by.

Since the kennels' capacity is fullest during the holidays, it helps the Linnings to have five children who are all animal lovers and who all will be home from college and work to help. On Christmas mornings, 40 dogs must be fed before one present is opened. Linning says her children love the business and that one is even studying to become a veterinarian.

"Everybody else rests on holidays. We go out and feed 40 dogs before opening Christmas presents," she said.

The fact that Bill Linning works for a school system is a big asset to Bark 'N Town Kennels. Whenever school is out, he does maintenance work in the kennels.

The Linnings joke that they hope to have their kennels for at least 16 years. The reason? Bark 'N Town's three previous proprietors each owned it for 13, 14 and 15 years respectively.

Bark 'N Town Kennels is located at 27607 W. Brandenburg Rd., Ingleside. The number is (815) 385-0632.

4-wheel drive sales increase

Car dealers were happy to see the snow finally hit the Lakeland area this week.

According to Tom McGovern of Rockenbach Chevrolet in Grayslake, a good snowfall escalates the sales of four-wheel drive vehicles.

"It's the season. When the snow hits, they buy them," he said.

Bob Heyse of AMC/Jeep/Renault in Barrington said four-wheel drive Jeep sales also pick up after a snowfall, but added that they've been pretty stable this year.

According to all dealers, now is the best time to get a good deal on a four-wheel drive since they are overstocked as a result of the mild winter.

Owned by Allison Waughop, Allison's Typing Service not only offers typing for anything from a personal letter to a new business projection, the company also assists both large and small companies with virtually any type of office project.

Master repairman

Aristocrat Shoe Repair owner Joe D'Antonio, a fourth generation shoe repairman, has been working in the trade since he was 14. He and his wife, Penny, relocated from Waukegan to Lindenhurst last fall. D'Antonio is re-heeling a pair of wing tips. —Photo by Kim Bolton

Craftsman enters field at age 14

by KIM BOLTON

Joe D'Antonio, owner of Aristocrat Shoe Repair in Lindenhurst, has been repairing shoes since he was 14. He learned his trade, which has been in his family for four generations, at his favorite high-school hangout, his cousin's Homewood shop.

Although shoe repair has become a dying art with more synthetic than leather shoes being manufactured today, D'Antonio says that "wise people have kept this trade from being history."

"In a market flooded with cheap, synthetic materials, people are understanding the value of purchasing leather shoes," D'Antonio said.

He said that leather shoes are not only valuable because of their ability to be repaired to look like new, but because their ability to breathe and flex makes them healthier for the feet. According to D'Antonio, podiatrists recommend leather shoes for proper footcare and for proper growth in children's feet.

D'Antonio opened his first shop in the Belvidere Mall in Waukegan when he was only 18. Nine years later, he and his wife, Penny, moved the business to Linden Plaza in Lindenhurst because it was more lucrative to be located in an area where more people wear leather shoes.

Not only does D'Antonio repair shoes. He also repairs all leather goods and sells children's footwear, men's boots and various shoe care products. His wife runs the shop while he is working on repairs.

D'Antonio says shoe repair is coming back into vogue because of the high price of shoes. According to him, it is more sensible to spend $25 on re-heeling and re-soling a good pair of men's leather shoes than it is to buy a new pair for a price upward of $100.

When D'Antonio has free time, he builds shoes for Six Flags Great America's characters-- a job that he went after by showing the company what he would do to improve on quality and comfort. He says he makes the shoe from scratch after seeing a pattern.

D'Antonio, who is in his late-twenties, says people are surprised to see him when they come in the store because they're expecting the stereotyped older man.

"Customers often come in and say, 'I thought there'd be an old man here!'" he said.

Aristocrat Shoe Repair is located at 2140 Grand Ave. in Lindenhurst. The number is (312) 356-9494.

Energy grants available

Small businesses undertaking renovation and rehabilitation projects targeted at saving energy may be eligible for up to $20,000 to help pay interest incurred on loans funding the improvements, according to Jay Hedges, director of the Dept. of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA).

Hedges said the $20,000 figure represents a doubling of the maximum grant available through the Illinois Small Business Energy Management Program, administered through DCCA's Small Business Assistance Bureau (SBAB), which helps existing commercial and industrial small businesses obtain financing at reduced interest rates to implement energy conservation projects.

Hedges said qualifying projects must show estimated energy savings, based on past use compared to usage following project completion. Projects typically include replacing heating or air conditioning systems, installing insulation, replacing single-pane windows and installing energy management systems and equipment.

To obtain a grant, businesses must complete an application, taking it to an Illinois lending institution to obtain an approved loan to fund the project. The lender then submits the application to DCCA, which may pre-pay 100 percent of the loan interest costs, up to $20,000, directly to the lender as a grant.

To obtain a grant application, a free energy audit, or for further information about the Illinois Small Business Energy Management Program, contact the Illinois Small Business Hotline at 1-800-252-2923.

Block closure

NORTH CHICAGO---closure of Ft. Sheridan should be blocked on grounds that there are no figures to support the move, no facilities to move to and that the military mission of the Fourth Army will be impaired, the North Chicago Chamber of Commerce urged in letters to U.S.

Senators Paul Simon and Allan Dixon, and Congressmen John Porter and Philip R. Crane. Martin Paulson, chairman of the chamber's military affairs committee, said Ft. Sheridan is a total military installation and that the perception of being a "neat place with a luxurious shoreline" is a myth.

Candidate's night

LAKE ZURICH---Youth-oriented topics will be the focus of a candidate's night on Feb. 16 in Lake Zurich. The event, sponsored by the Lake Zurich Youth Baseball Assn., will be held at the Lake Zurich Senior High School from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Kennedy withdraws

PARK CITY---Park City Mayor Virginia Kennedy has withdrawn her petition to be on the April 4 election. Ald. Ed Hunzinger had challenged Kennedy's petition but Kennedy said the withdraw had been long planned.

Vianikos withdraws

MUNDELEIN---Leon Vainikos has withdrawn from the race for mayor, after Duane Barcena, chairman of the committee to elect Don "Gus" Johnson as mayor, filed an objection to the required petition for nomination turned in by Vainikos. Barcena, in a hearing required when an objection is filed, attempted to withdraw his objection when he found out that less than 24 hours before, Vainikos had withdrawn from the race. Barcena became agitated when told by Colin McRae, chairman of the Mundelein Electoral Board, that his objection by state statute becomes a matter of public record and cannot be withdrawn during the process of a hearing.

Cable TV proposed

LINCOLNSHIRE---The village board is expected to approve a contract with the Post-Newsweek cable company at next week's meeting. David Limardi, village manager, reviewed the proposed agreement before about 35 residents at a committee of the whole meeting. Questions were asked concerning what type of digging would be needed to install lines, but aside from this, the consensus of the residents appeared to be that the village should move ahead quickly with plans for providing cable television.

Humanities award

WAUKEGAN---In 1969, the "Fred W. Losch Humanities Award" was established in the memory of Mr. Losch, who was the Second Vice-President of the Waukegan/Lake County Chamber of Commerce at the time of his untimely death. Mr. Losch was recognized and admired for his qualities and characteristics, which enriched our community in the areas of home and family, religious life, community life, business and vocation. Any person or organization may nominate any person or persons who are residents of Lake County for this award, which will be presented at the Annual Meeting of Waukegan/Lake County Chamber of Commerce. Application forms can be obtained by contacting the Chamber office at (312)249-3800. Nominations must be received at the Chamber office no later than March 15.

Appoint O'Brien

GURNEE---Gurnee Plan Commission member Dave O'Brien is the newest member of the village board. O'Brien's appointment by Gurnee Mayor Dick Welton was approved by the board. O'Brien will serve until the April election and was named to replace the late Bernard Hensgen. Feb. 6 was proclaimed as Bernard Hensgen Day in Gurnee.

Wetlands rules

THIRD LAKE---Third Lake Village board members have approved a new wetlands ordinance aimed at providing for further protection for the village's many wetland areas.

Stateline lottery outlets offer lure of big money

by JOSEPH SOULAK

There is a pot of gold somewhere along the Illinois-Wisconsin state line. It could be just beyond the door at The Corner or Jay's Treasure Island, both on Rte. 41, with the purchase of an Illinois lottery ticket. It might be at any of dozens of lottery outlets that hug the state line from Zion to Richmond.

The landmark Jay's in Russell has a sign over the door greeting all who enter below: "Good luck to all our customers."

Some need it. Others take their chances. Both types are among the hundreds of daily $1 and $5 instant winners or the weekly ones for bigger amounts.

Here and at hundreds of other lottery outlets around the state people by the thousands plunk down cold cash in hopes of winning the Daily Double, Pick 4, the instant lottery, one of the weekly Lotto jackpots or the new Green Stuff Instant Game.

William Matthews of Russell last month won $100,000 in the Green Stuff game introduced last fall.

Last April Jay's had a $5,000,000 winner. Other outlets have hit it almost as big over the years. The Corner proclaims in a sign it sold the ticket to a $3.9 million winner. The Corner is among the top 10 lottery ticket sales outlets in the state.

On prizes of $1,000 or more, the seller collects a bonus equal to one percent of the prize.

Jay's owner/manager said he was too busy with long lines of customers in midday to talk about business or customers. He didn't want to give his name nor talk about winners at what has traditionally been among the biggest lottery ticket sales outlets in this part of the state. But he willingly sold another ticket

"I stop here on the way back from visiting my sister in Glenview. Every week I have a whole list of people I buy tickets for. The winners I redeem the following week."—Ray Beck of Bay View, Wis.

to anyone who waved a $1 bill.

Customers were equally non-committal.

The owner/manager at Jay's said Wisconsin buyers are big business. "The Wisconsin lottery is too new and doesn't have enough big prizes," he said of winners that get thousands of dollars instead of millions. The Wisconsin lottery started late last summer.

Parking lots at most lottery outlets on this side of the state line are filled with a majority of Wisconsin license plates. This was especially true of Jay's, Jerry's Amoco next door, The Corner down Rte. 41 about three miles and Senter's Car and Truck Plaza, which is even closer to the border in Russell.

The same might be said of parking lots on Rte. 12 near Richmond and Sheridan Rd. in Zion. Motorists driving into Illinois are immediately bombarded with billboards and signs of all sizes identifying lottery outlets.

Some buyers said they came across the state line to buy cigarettes and then "spend a few dollars" on lottery tickets in hopes of getting a winner.

Those who did win bought more lottery tickets.

Cigarette buyers find prices from as low as $6.99 for Malibu or a generic brand to $11.99 for Marlboro's.

Ticket sales build toward the weekend Lotto drawing. Friday and Saturday the parking lots at stateline outlets are filled almost to overflowing with cars bearing Wisconsin plates.

"I stop here on the way back from visiting my sister in Glenview," said elderly Ray Beck of Bay View, a suburb of Milwaukee. "Every week I have a whole list of people I buy tickets for," he said clutching fistful of tickets. "The winners I redeem the following week."

An elderly couple from the South Side of Milwaukee were reluctant to talk. "Are you from the IRS?" they chorused. When assured their identity would be protected, they said "buying Illinois lottery tickets is the one vice we have. There is more incentive to drive here," he said of the one-hour trip to spend $15 or $20 for tickets. They promised to return again the following week.

"Other people in Wisconsin have won big money in Illinois," Dan Duba of Cudahy said. "Maybe my day will come soon."

Another volume buyer with almost $50 in ticket orders was Jim Guiffre of Oak Creek. "I and my friends have had a few good-sized pots over the years," he said, "but we're still waiting for our ship to come in."

"There have been big winners at these places," Jack Sento of West Allis said about Jay's and The Corner. "I figure one of these days it will be my turn." The trip for weekly tickets takes him about an hour.

Dozens of other customers at the Rte. 41 outlets quickly dashed toward their car when approached. "You're not getting my name," some said.

"I'll tell you why I buy lottery tickets in Illinois," one man said. "Because there's more money to be won here. Maybe Wisconsin will get smart someday and start doing the same."

Rich chance

Long lines at Jay's Treasure (at left) on Rte. 41 in Russell are in front of four computerized lottery machines that spit out tickets as fast as people buy them. Cigarettes are the next most popular purchase, especially with the majority of customers, who come from Wisconsin.

Parking lot for pot of gold

Pot of gold may await buyer of Illinois Lottery ticket at Jay's Treasure Island (at right) on Rte. 41 at junction of Rte. 173 in Russell, as sign above entrance hints. Parking lot filled with cars from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. seven days a week has proliferation of Wisconsin license plates. Some come here to buy cigarettes, but almost all take a chance on the lottery.

Attendance down for Carmel's annual fundraiser

by BRENT KILLACKEY

Carmel High School's 15th "Street Scenes", its annual fundraiser, turned the school into a nightclub during the three-night event.

After a special performance for persons under 21 on the first night, Street Scenes went into full gear on Friday and Saturday with 28 different groups performing.

A combined total of 4,800 people visited Carmel to see the many shows. This number was down from last year's attendance of 5,200.

Dick Budris, general chairperson for Street Scenes, said the lighter crowd was "because of the weather." Heavy snowfall and low temperatures on Saturday night kept people away.

The total amount of money Street Scenes raised for Carmel will not be released until the traditional party for workers on Feb. 25.

This year's theme for Street Scenes was a "spoof of the Classics."

Again, a very popular show was the student show, "The Curly-Girly Revue". The students worked for several months with Dir. Sissy DePrima to put the show together.

Greg Barker, a senior at Carmel and a star in the performance, said, "I enjoyed the camaraderie that evolved among members of the crew. The director is really a gifted individual and she deserves a lot of credit."

Street Scenes was a group effort composed of hundreds of volunteers. One volunteer, a teacher at Carmel who gave many hours of his time, is Tony Recchia. Recchia, an employee in the school's cafeteria kitchen, worked an average of 18 hours a day during the three-day event.

Recchia also enjoys how "they (the students) get to see the other side of me."

They only know me in the classroom as a tyrant, and I'm not a tyrant at all."

Among the many volunteers who ran Street Scenes were the general chaircouple, Dick and Gerry Budris. The entertainment directors were Gordon and Catherine Chicoine; Bill and Kathy Souci headed finance; inside operations were handled by Dick and Terry Slater; Joe and Carol Wash were properties directors; Joanne Boehm handled public relations; the food directors were Bud and Josie Nix; and the beverage directors were Gary and Sharon Reynhout.

It's politics, whether top or bottom

by BILL SCHROEDER

In politics, it isn't uncommon to start at the top and the bottom at the same time. If that sounds confusing, remember, it's politics.

That's exactly where Gary E. MacDougal is today—both the top and the bottom.

A few weeks ago, after serving as a campaign advisor to President George Bush, MacDougal was mentioned widely for the cabinet post of Secretary of Health and Human Services. That's about as high—and close—as you can get to the most powerful office in the free world.

Today, MacDougal is trodding the hustings in an attempt to see if he's got what it takes to run for the U.S. Senate. That's the bottom of the political ladder, and that's where we got acquainted with MacDougal, an affable guy, easy to talk to and possessor of a business pedigree comparable to a thoroughbred getting ready for the Kentucky Derby trials.

MacDougal is primed to tangle with incumbent U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, the redoubtable Democrat who strikes fear in the hearts of many Republicans itching for higher office.

"Not me," exclaimed MacDougal. "It's going to take an early start to make a race against Simon in 1990. I think I've got the credentials, and I think I know where Simon is soft. Now I've got to get people acquainted with Gary MacDougal."

So that's how this correspondent came to get acquainted with Gary MacDougal at a meeting at Gurnee Holiday Inn.

About as quickly as you can say, "Nice to know you," MacDougal produced a biography and several sheets of reprints recounting 18 years in industry as chairman and CEO of Mark Controls Corp., and how he sold the business, making megabucks for the stockholders. He volunteered for the Bush campaign and the rest is a short course in public affairs.

MacDougal is no stranger to Lake County. At the helm of Mark Controls, including a plant in Lake Zurich, MacDougal resided in North Barrington.

His family's love for horses brought them to the Lake County Fair every year, so he feels at home in these parts although he now resides in Chicago.

As a businessman, MacDougal was encouraged to involve himself in the political process by the late Gov. Richard Ogilvie, who, among others, inspired the careers of Gov. James Thompson and former U.S. Sen. Charles Percy.

From here on, MacDougal will be on his own. Obviously, MacDougal is at ease in the public arena. He may not have a whole lot of competition in getting a chance to run against Simon. But that remains to be seen, as does how Gary MacDougal enjoys life in the trenches.

PREZ COMING—Dr. Stanley Ikenberry, president of the University of Illinois Urbana-Campaign, heads the list of dignitaries who will take part in the 75th anniversary observance of Lake County Cooperative Extension Services, U of I, on May 8 at the Rte. 45 headquarters near Rte. 120.

After the early May kick off, the anniversary program will extend for several months, according to Home Economist Barbara Dahl, chairman, with such events as a dinner, 4-H beautification planting, 4-H horse show, and a 4-H family and an alumni reunion.

Known as Home Bureau for many years, Cooperative Extension has an enviable record of teaching and advancing family living. Dahl has a committee of nearly 20 persons working on arrangements.

DRY SEASON—If nursery operators and orchardists are thinking about organizing a massive rain dance to bring rain on this locality, it's no wonder. Threats of another dry season are looming again after the 1988 drought.

Richard Schroeder, operator of a large Fremont Twp. nursery, said the local nursery industry "lost a year" in 1988 due to inadequate rainfall. What moisture ultimately came last year was after the growing season.

Rick Breeden of Wauconda Orchards is keeping a wary eye on long range weather forecasts. Last year turned into a big job of "keeping the trees alive," according to Breeden, much less harvesting a crop.

By the way, nurseries and orchards are getting bigger all the time in the local business scene, a major agricultural influence in a suburban area. The lesson? What the land can produce still is important around here.

Horrible mistake

More and more it is appearing as if the Defense Dept. made a horrible mistake in putting Ft. Sheridan on a list of military installations for closure as an economy measure.

There is strong evidence that cost savings figures outlined by the Pentagon in mothballing Ft. Sheridan are seriously flawed. The investigation of how the base "hit list" was prepared is suspect. One person from the special commission authorized by Congress to reduce the defense budget by getting rid of unneeded installations made only a cursory visit to Ft. Sheridan. There is no reason to believe that a serious, thorough investigation of Ft. Sheridan was made by federal authorities.

Ft. Sheridan is a shirt-sleeve, multi-purpose installation playing a key roll in the U.S. military and defense readiness posture. The Lake County installation provides a base and resource center for a network of Army and armed forces needs fanning out throughout the entire midwest. Situated in the nation's heartland and located adjacent to the nation's third largest metropolis with vast communications and transportation facilities, the 100-year-old fort's strategic value simply cannot be ignored—except, perhaps, by congressional headhunters.

Ironically, at the precise moment neighboring municipal leaders were carving up nearly 700 acres of public lands at a hearing called by Cong. John Porter, a meeting of the Military Affairs Committee of the North Chicago Chamber of Commerce was taking place to formulate a response to the proposed closure action. The consensus was that as patriotic Americans and serious-minded taxpayers, citizens must fight the Ft. Sheridan closure plans from every conceivable angle.

Members of the committee headed by restaurateur Martin Paulson were struck by the thought that if a mistake has been made at Ft. Sheridan, what about the other installations on the hit list? A Russian nuclear attack couldn't dismantle a significant part of America's military might any faster than the closure commission and the impending congressional vote needed to implement the program.

There could be a clear and present danger to national security if closure plans are left unchallenged. Cong. Porter should demand a more comprehensive accounting of purported savings resulting from relocating Ft. Sheridan to Indiana. Testimony of impartial military experts sorely is needed to emphasize Ft. Sheridan's strategic importance.

It could come down to someone making a Paul Revere-like ride to head off a defense and preparedness disaster. If that's the case, let's start saddling up.

Demands unceasing

Growth pressures are getting more than excessive when the school superintendent is being forced out of his office to make room for more students. But that's exactly the situation confronting Dr. Marlin Meyer of Woodland Dist. 50 in the rapidly growing area west of Gurnee. Meyer is thinking of student welfare in planning the self-imposed eviction.

Finding a place to hang his hat, though, is not one of the pressing orders of business for Meyer. Right now he's more interested in obtaining passage of a 95 cent increase in the educational tax in a referendum Feb. 28 to stave off impending deficits and to restore programs cut in previous economy drives.

Woodland's plight is the all too familiar situation of insufficient commercial real estate tax base to keep up with demands imposed by residential growth. Lest Woodland taxpayers be dilluded into thinking future taxes generated by the planned Gurnee Mills super shopping center will be a boon, they are being reminded by a citizens committee that Hawthorn School Dist. receives less than $400,000 per year in real estate taxes from Hawthorn Shopping Center. Individual taxpayers still are the tax source of final recourse.

In the same vicinity, Gurnee Dist. 56 voters will be asked Feb. 28 to approve an increase of 20 cents per $100 assessed valuation in the building fund and 65 cents per $100 of assessed valuation for the education fund. The district needs a new school to meet growth demands and provide for the future.

Taxpayers can't be blamed for getting more than a little weary from the constant pressure to provide new revenues to keep up. Will the pressures ever cease? No one has come up with an answer yet, other than asking John Q. Public to dig down a little deeper here and elsewhere.

Save for the future

Editor:

Add me to the list of supporters for open land.

I grew up in Chicago and enjoyed the wonderful forest preserves that border the Des Plaines River. I have such lovely memories of walking, biking, riding horses, on what seemed like endless trails. And all just a bus ride away from my city home.

I was a teenager when it occurred to me that "someone", a long time ago, saved this for me to enjoy. I felt immense gratitude to that "someone".

Can't we do that for our children, and their children, and on and on for generations to come?

Silent on Rte. 53

Editor:

Apparently, the Grayslake village officials know a political hot potato when they see one. With an eye on local elections just around the corner, their silence on the subject of the proposed extension of State Rte. 53 is deafening.

Many other community leaders in western Lake County, some affected less than Grayslake, have taken positions on this important issue.

The potential negative impact that the proposed Rte. 53 extension ending at Rtes. 45 and 120 would have on us is enormous.

The IDOT "2010" Plan has no west-bound traffic by-pass provision around Grayslake. This means the west-bound traffic would need to go through Grayslake on Rte. 120 to go to McHenry County and/or link up with Rte. 12 to Wisconsin.

The over-all negative impact that this extension would have upon western Lake County could be disastrous.

Countless issues have been raised in public testimony ranging from open space and environmental destruction to flooding and worse traffic problems created by the Rte. 53 extension and intensified by massive new development alongside the extension's corridor.

Again, while the village officials' silence may seem to be prudent political strategy, I feel it to be self-serving. It is irresponsible to Grayslake's citizens for its village representatives not to take a public position on this issue of vital importance to all of us.

I strongly urge Grayslake's mayor and trustees to procrastinate no longer and pass a resolution opposing the proposed Rte. 53 extension.

Politically Speaking

by JOSEPH SOULAK

Hardly anyone likes long, boring meetings. But some bodies just don't know when to quit. The bigger the committee, the longer it takes to reach a consensus.

That's why it was refreshing the other day to hear County Board member F.T. "Mike" Graham reflect on this. It was at a meeting he chaired that had gone on an hour and 20 minutes. "Any meeting that lasts more than an hour is a waste of time," he politely said. With that it promptly adjourned.

As the old adage goes: "The mind can absorb no more than the posterior can endure."

One man with a cause is Lake Villa Twp. Hwy. Comm. James Semmerling. He has gone through three attorneys in his two-year-old battle with the Lake County Building and Zoning Dept.

Semmerling says he doesn't need a permit for highway or byway projects his department undertakes. So his jobs have received so many red tags a second printing was needed.

The goateed Semmerling said he is fighting for the independence state statutes give his office. "This could become case law," he said of the challenge.

This one is so hot, he claims, only a Chicago law firm will handle it. One of his new lawyers is John Garrett, who lives in Lake Villa Twp. He was involved with his wife, Jo, in the ill-fated incorporation of Liberty Lakes.

Last month, when a bill for $4,819 was received for services rendered, the township board rejected payment until it was itemized like all other bills. When a second bill was presented—for $4,872—it was turned back because the amount was different. Come to find out the added $53 was for preparation of the statement.

The case was to be heard this week—just in time so all legal fees can be paid before the April election. That's when Semmerling's job will be on the ballot.

Skrzenta

Edgar

Semmerling

A judicial decision is expected March 1. If it goes the wrong way Semmerling vowed to go to the state Supreme Court.

So-called stranglehold of the Magna Monopoly on the Round Lake Sanitary Dist. is the next target of County Board Chairman Norman Geary. He has the power of appointment over the three-member board.

Not only does Round Lake Mayor Rudy Magna run his community, he controls the sanitary district, Geary claims. Magna is a former president of the body. His son, Rudy Magna Jr., is the board's attorney and a business partner, Al Valentine, is district treasurer.

Geary said the board is conspiring to form a separate taxing district to handle the duties of the present board.

In December, Round Lake insurance agent Jack Molitor was named to fill a long-standing vacancy. Second member is Rick Leber, superintendent of the Fox Lake Treatment Plant, which serves Round Lake. This spring the term of the third member, radio newsman Charles Johnston, will expire. Johnston fears he won't get reappointed.

"His fears are correct," Geary said. "I appointed Johnston to break up this monopoly. Before I knew it he was right in bed with these people."

Political pro he is, state Rep. Robert Churchill (R-Lake Villa), of the 62nd Dist., has hired his own public relations firm.

It is Friedlander Communications Ltd. of Bannockburn.

"I didn't think I was being effectively served by the PR agencies available to me in Springfield," the House minority whip said. "The agency has experience in this area and, besides, owner Dan Friedlander lives in my district," he said of the Waukegan resident.

Asked if this is in preparation for a bid he will make for state office, Churchill said, "Not that I know of. Ask me 10 years from now."

For those who would like to meet and see an up-and-coming state office holder in person, mark Tuesday, June 20, on your calendar. Sec. of State Jim Edgar will be at Marvella's Restaurant in Fox Lake for what is becoming an annual fund raiser.

Cost will be $50 for a buffet and two-hour open bar.

No one, not even Edgar, has identified the office he would like next. But the betting is on the governor's residence when "Big Jim" Thompson ends his term.

One of the oldest and best, if not the biggest, political gatherings in west Lake County will be this weekend. It is the 41st annual Lincoln Day dinner of the Grant Twp. Republican Club.

It will be Saturday, Feb. 11, at Marvella's restaurant on Washington St. in Ingleside starting at 6 p.m.

Everybody who is anybody in the political world shows up for this one. It began one year after the Grant Twp. GOP Club was formed, recalls one of the original organizers, Adam Skrzenta.

That first year's dinner was at Grant High School, but since liquor couldn't be served on school property it was moved. In succeeding years it was held at the American Legion, Sabatini's and Wing 'N Fin.

Some of the early Republican warhorses involved were the likes of Leo Steffen, Noel White, Frank Valenta, Fritz Kazlauskis, Al White, Roy Weselius and Mike Clemensen. Apologies to all others—here or in the hereafter—not mentioned who have been so much a part of this traditional event.

Aged deserve more than being put out to pasture

In 1986, Richard D. Lamm startled the American public. The former governor of Colorado, gave new meaning to an old term "generational conflict". He suggested people in what were their "Golden Years" had a duty to get on with it and depart this vale so the young will have something left.

The idea that the aging are in the way was present in different ages and cultures. If the aging Indian squaw had no one to hunt for her anymore, some Indian tribes just let her go unfed and unprotected. The elements took care of the rest. I've read somewhere that Eskimos, in a bygone era, took their aged infirm and speeded things along by setting them adrift on an ice floe. The governor was only putting into be faced with the awesome task of deciding when medical care for an individual should be stopped, but they are comfortably advancing bold, sweeping ideas that pass the burden to others. Their ideas lend respectability to the belief that certain classes or age groups are less deserving of consideration than others. Other questions influencing events are: How do we rid ourselves of the mounting federal deficit; and how do we care for the rising number of senior citizens?

Meanwhile, some of our ethicists foster the concepts that older citizens, as a class, have more money, are in worse health and are a drag on the national purse. These are not close to being good generalizations, but they degrade the seniors and do foster a kind of class war between generations.

In this vein, a government task force last year suggested Social Security payments be taxed. Another part of our government suggested all the money paid into the Social Security Trust fund (which is solvent until about the year 2010, or so) be loaned to help pay off the national debt. If this were done, no money will be around for people when they reach the age for them to collect. If it were borrowed for that purpose, how would the government pay it back to the trust fund? The answer: By taxing everyone who paid money into the fund in order to give it back to them?

Lamm, now at the University of Denver, followed his statements the next year with his "10 Commandments of an Aging Society". He believes we already ration health care, but for the benefit of the aged! And we shouldn't let young children or the rest of our needs suffer while doing that.

In that same year, 1987, Daniel Callahan, Ph.D., director of the Hastings Center in New York, wrote a book, "Setting Limits". He is a kindly gentleman, but his book goes one step further in suggesting we work on a medical care cutoff age because, even with ample resources, "There will be better ways to spend our money than indefinitely extending the life of the elderly".

Musings. Our pundits have opened a controversy that will continue far into the next century. Although not formally adopted, it creeps into medical care through cost containment. Who will make the decisions? If we were to set a chronological age, will we deprive ourselves of our most wise and experienced? Is it a type of euthanasia? Nazi-like, will it extend to others?

Medical usings

words what a group in this country was getting at more subtly. We should examine how this has come about.

Cost of medical care has become a main concern and preoccupation over the last 15 years. To put a brake on the exploding technology that is lifesaving, but also expensive, layer upon layer of rules have been applied. Constraints on medical providers to save money have become so strict and rigid that it's naive to discuss ways of rationing it. It's already here in many ways. The Medicare people, the insurance companies, the HMOs, the managed care consultants hired by industry do it every day. Third party payers ration by saying, "It's medically unnecessary" and refuse payment. Then the providers are discouraged from giving that care. It has even gone further than that. Reams of print have made physicians appear to be doing something socially unacceptable if they continue the old ways.

The last 10 years has seen the accelerated growth of a group of relatively new players. These are medical ethicists. They have taken upon themselves the task of deciding who is to get care, what kind and for how long. Predominantly, they are not the ones taking care of the sick. Economists, philosophers and bureaucrats, many carrying Ph.Ds as credentials, make up the bulk of this group. They will not

Letter

Bill, he seems to indicate that the seniors are only upset because they found out that it will cost something. He tosses the figures around as though they are only modest unless you make $90,000.

I believe the seniors are complaining because they do understand that these costs are more than modest for what benefits they may or may not receive. The bill itself was shotgunning through on July 1, 1988, so that many of the legislators could be home for the election.

Let's review some of the cost: The Medicare premium that 98 percent pay for Medicare B, has a potential cost of $1,022.40 per year for a married couple 65 years of age or over by 1993, almost double in the 1988 rate. (Matijevich mentions $511.20 a person which sounds less doesn't it?) Also Matijevich's statement of "Married couples, age 65 or over with $20,000 income would only pay $23". How naive can he be? A $20,000 income for a married couple would have an obligation of approximately $1,500 plus this new 15 percent surcharge of about $225 and on $23. Then in 1990 the surcharge goes to 25 percent and on to 28 percent by 1993 with no real cap even then. Is this a modest increase?

The articles that I have read and responded to indicate that the new law may only help three to 17 percent of the elderly. A remedy is certainly needed but this bill doesn't seem to be it.

Good records make tax preparation easy

Good tax records can save taxpayers substantial time and money when preparing income tax returns. And they can save themselves hours of searching for earnings statements or lost receipts and cancelled checks, if their financial records are in order. These records are not only necessary to prepare a complete and accurate return but can save people money by making them aware of deductions they might have otherwise overlooked.

The types of records to save by those filing Form 1040, the shorter Form 1040A or the 11-line Form 1040EZ include income statements such as Forms W-2 and W-2P (showing income from wages and from pensions and annuities) and Forms 1099-INT and 1099-DIV (showing income from interest and dividends).

Parents who pay for the care of their children or dependents while they work or look for work should keep careful records of these payments if they want to claim a credit for the amount they pay. These records should consist of a week-by-week log of the name, address and, if required, social security number of the care provider, as well as the amount paid. Cancelled checks or receipts for cash payments will serve as substantiation of the amount paid. These records will enable taxpayers to accurately compute the child and dependent care credit, which can be claimed on either Form 1040A or the longer Form 1040.

Taxpayers who itemize deductions should keep receipts, cancelled checks, etc., for such things as medical and dental payments, contributions to churches and charities, and statements to substantiate mortgage interest. Records of real estate taxes and personal property taxes paid during the tax year should also be kept. Other miscellaneous items to keep might include records of payment of union dues, unreimbursed employee business expenses, investment expenses, and tax return preparation fees—these can be deducted only to the extent that the total amount exceeds two percent of the taxpayer's adjusted gross income.

Taxpayers must have statements, worksheets and receipts that document and support the income, deductions and credits claimed on their tax returns, should IRS need to examine them. Tax records which support items claimed on a return should be kept at least until the period of limitation expires for that return—usually this is three years from the date the return was due or filed, or two years from the date the tax was paid, whichever is later.

Sometimes records must be kept longer than the period of limitation even though the tax return is correct and complete. Records of property transactions (including real estate, stock, machinery, etc.) should be kept for future reference. In addition, copies of old tax returns may be helpful in preparing future returns, so taxpayers may want to keep them with their other records.

The IRS publishes a free publication on recordkeeping for tax purposes, Publication 552, Recordkeeping for Individuals and a List of Tax Publications.

It's Tax Time!

How you can ease the pain

To assist Lakeland readers with the filing of their 1988 income taxes, Lakeland Newspapers, the College of Lake County and the Internal Revenue Service are co-sponsoring their fourth annual tax seminar.

This year's seminar will focus on both business and individual returns and will feature two speakers. Sallie Goding, an IRS revenue agent and resident of Gages Lake, will speak about legislative tax changes and problems associated with them.

Martin Nye, owner of the accounting and tax consulting firm, Nye and Nye of Highland Park and downtown Chicago, will speak about tax planning, the organization of records, and commonly missed deductions.

According to Goding, her work as a revenue agent deals mainly with the auditing of larger corporations. Nye has been an accountant for more than 25 years and says the main emphasis of his business is "in helping individuals and businesses to take advantage of all deductions allowed in the code."

After speaking, Goding and Nye will hold a question and answer period. Their intention is to insure that every member of the audience leaves with the knowledge needed to prepare their own taxes or that needed to be able to organize their records for the specialist preparing their forms.

The free tax seminar will be held Thursday, Feb. 16, from 7 to 9 p.m. in room C003 of the Grayslake campus of the College of Lake County.

Nye says it's important for people to become educated in tax law. In order to facilitate the education process, they should take advantage of seminars and the time they spend with their tax preparer. He says that people always forget deductions and do not take all that they are entitled to.

"Most individuals do not take advantage of allowable deductions. Normally, the fee the tax preparers would charge is very small in comparison to the educational information we provide the taxpayer and the return that they get back," he said.

Nye works to help people find areas where deductions can be made and says that he welcomes phone calls at any time of the year from clients who are planning their deductions.

"I am a vocal and caring person. I care that people take every allowable tax return deduction included in the tax code," Nye said.

All Internal Revenue Service publications and tax forms mentioned in this special tax supplement will be available at no charge at the Lakeland tax seminar. They are also available by calling the IRS at 1-800-424-3676.

WORKING STUDENTS:

When you fill out your Form W-4 or W-4A, "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate," remember: If you can be claimed on your parent's or another person's tax return, you generally cannot be exempt from income tax withholding. To get it right, read the instructions that came with your Form W-4 or W-4A.

New Tax Law TIP

To help you understand the new tax law, the IRS has two new publications. Publication 920 explains changes affecting individuals and Publication 921 explains changes affecting businesses. Both are free. Ask for one at any IRS office or call the IRS Tax Forms number in your phone book.

Don't delay, use IRS labels

Many delays in the processing of federal income tax returns could be avoided if taxpayers used the labels and envelopes that accompany their tax packages, the IRS says.

The peel-off label, which contains the taxpayer's name, address and social security number, is designed to expedite accurate processing at IRS service centers and thus avoid delay in the issuance of a refund check.

The IRS advises taxpayers to use the label, even if corrections are necessary. For example, in the case of a change of address, the correction should be made directly on the label. Taxpayers who use a tax preparer need to furnish the peel-off label to their practitioner for use on their return.

One of the most common and troublesome errors that can be averted by use of the label is the listing of an incorrect or illegible social security number. This is a major cause of delayed refund checks.

The coded, pre-addressed envelope ensures that the return is sent to the proper IRS service center. Once the envelope reaches the service center, the coding ensures speedy entry into the processing system. Taxpayers should make sure they use the proper postage when mailing their returns. Most returns require one first class stamp; however, thicker returns, usually containing over four items (i.e., Form 1040 and three attachments) require additional postage. Returns which are sent back to taxpayers for additional postage will not be considered timely filed even if they are originally mailed on April 15.

H & R Block offers speedy refund returns

by KIMBERLY BOLTON

H&R Block of Round Lake is offering two new services this year which enable customers to receive speedy refunds on their returns. The Block franchise, owned by Don and Carol Anderson of Round Lake, is one of only 14 in Illinois offering the new services.

The first service is called rapid refund and the way it works is simple. Customers either bring their prepared tax returns to H&R Block, or have H&R Block prepare them at no initial charge. The return is then filed by computer to the IRS through a mainframe company called CompuServe.

The IRS guarantees a refund will be sent to H&R Block within 28 days on any electronically filed tax returns. Customers of Block are notified when their refund, minus Block's fee, is ready.

The second service is available for those customers needing their refund even sooner. Called a refund anticipation loan, the service is offered in conjunction with Bank One.

Bank One is lending customers of H&R Block the equivalent of their refund, minus service charges, within 14 days after filing. The service charge for Bank One is $41 and the charge for a rapid refund from H&R Block starts at $30.

"We expect these services to be a big plus this year for people who need their refund in a hurry," Carol Anderson said. The H&R Block return is guaranteed so that if an error is found, the Andersons will pay the interest and the penalty leaving only the initial tax to their customer.

The Andersons have owned their H&R Block since 1975 and now employ 15 people during income tax season. Their office is located at 629 W. Rollins Rd. in Round Lake. The number is (312) 546-4862. Hours are Monday to Friday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays by appointment.

Medicare Coverage Act starts in 1989

The Medicare Catastrophic Coverage Act of 1988 imposes an income tax related supplemental premium on individuals eligible for hospitalization benefits under part A of Medicare.

Starting in the 1989 tax year, individuals will be subject to the premium of any taxable year if:

— They are eligible under Medicare for more than six full months beginning in the taxable year.

— Their adjusted income tax liability for the taxable year equals or exceeds $150.

The extended coverage and supplemental premium is not optional. The supplemental premium rates per $150 (per person on a joint return) are $22.50 for 1989 and $37.50 for 1990. The maximum supplemental premium for 1989 is $800 ($1,600 on a joint return).

This additional liability only affects 1989 tax returns. To plan ahead, individuals should adjust their withholding and/or estimated tax payments during 1989.

Your odds in the audit lottery

The taxpayer's chance of being audited is affected by his state of residence. Those taxpayers living in the western United States are twice as likely to be audited as those in the Southeast.

The auditing risk varies even more when odds are broken down by individual states. Maine residents are the least

Audits per 1,000 Individual Tax Returns

Source: IRS Publication 17

likely to be audited. They have a 0.5 percent audit rate.

According to the IRS, geographic differences are coincidental. Self-employed taxpayers have a much higher chance of being audited than do their employees. Therefore, geographical areas with the highest number of self-employed residents have a higher rate of auditing.

Other factors affecting audit odds are the number of employees in the local IRS office, and the priorities of each office.

Deduct moving, save money

Taxpayers who are changing their job location or starting a new job this year may be able to claim many of their moving expenses as an itemized deduction on Schedule A (Form 1040) when they file their tax returns, the Internal Revenue Service said. Form 3903 is used to compute the amount of deductible expenses.

Moving expenses that are allowable as an itemized deduction include the costs of: 1) househunting trips prior to the move but after getting the new job; 2) disposing of the old home and getting a new one; 3) meals and lodging while occupying temporary quarters at the new location; 4) moving personal items and household goods; and 5) transportation, meals, and lodging while traveling to the new residence.

A limited amount of job-related moving expenses may be deducted if the taxpayer meets the "distance test" and "time test," and the move is "closely related" to the start of work.

To meet the distance test, the new main job location must be at least 35 miles farther from the taxpayer's former home than the old main job location was. For example, if a taxpayer's old job was three miles from his or her former home, the new job must be at least 38 miles from that home.

To meet the time test, a taxpayer must be employed full time for at least 39 weeks during the first 12 months after arriving in the general area of a new job location. A taxpayer does not have to work 39 consecutive weeks or work for the same employer to meet this requirement. If a taxpayer is married and filing a joint return, and if both spouses work, either spouse's employment may fulfill the full-time work requirement but the weeks each spouse worked cannot be added together to fulfill the 39-week test.

Taxpayers who are self-employed must work full time for at least 39 weeks during the first 12 months after their move, and for a total of 78 weeks during the first 24 months.

In general, a move is considered closely related to the start of work if moving expenses are incurred within one year from the date the taxpayer first reported to work at the new location.

Taxpayers generally deduct their moving expenses in the year they pay them. Taxpayers who did not deduct moving expenses on a return already filed may be able to file an amended return. For more information, Publication 521, Moving Expenses, is available free by calling the IRS Tax Forms/Publications number listed in local telephone directories under U.S. Government.

Homeowner's recordkeeping

Homeowners should keep all records pertaining to costs of improvements to their homes. When the home is sold, many of these items can later be used to increase their investment in the home, and thus lower the amount of gain from the sale that is subject to tax. More information is available in the free IRS Publication 530, Tax Information for Owners of Homes, Condominiums, and Cooperative Apartments, available by calling or writing the IRS.

Child, dependent care credit can aid parents

Parents who pay someone to care for a child or dependent while they work or look for work may qualify for a special tax credit, the IRS says. This Child and Dependent Care Credit may be taken not only for payments to babysitters and day-care centers but also to certain relatives paid for this service.

This credit is available to married couples who both work part-time or full-time or are actively looking for work, and who file jointly. If one spouse works full-time and the other works part-time, is a full-time student or is disabled, he or she is also eligible for the credit, according to the IRS.

The credit may also apply to a divorced or separated parent who has custody of a child who is under 15 or physically or mentally incapable of self-care, even though the parent may not be entitled to a dependency exemption for the child. The parent claiming the credit must, however, have custody for a longer period during the year than the other parent. A married person living apart from his or her spouse for the last six months of the taxable year is eligible for the credit if a separate return is filed.

Percentage varies

The credit is from 20 to 30 percent of eligible expenses, depending on the taxpayer's adjusted gross income. The maximum credit that may be taken is limited to $720 for one qualifying person, and to $1,440 for two or more qualifying persons.

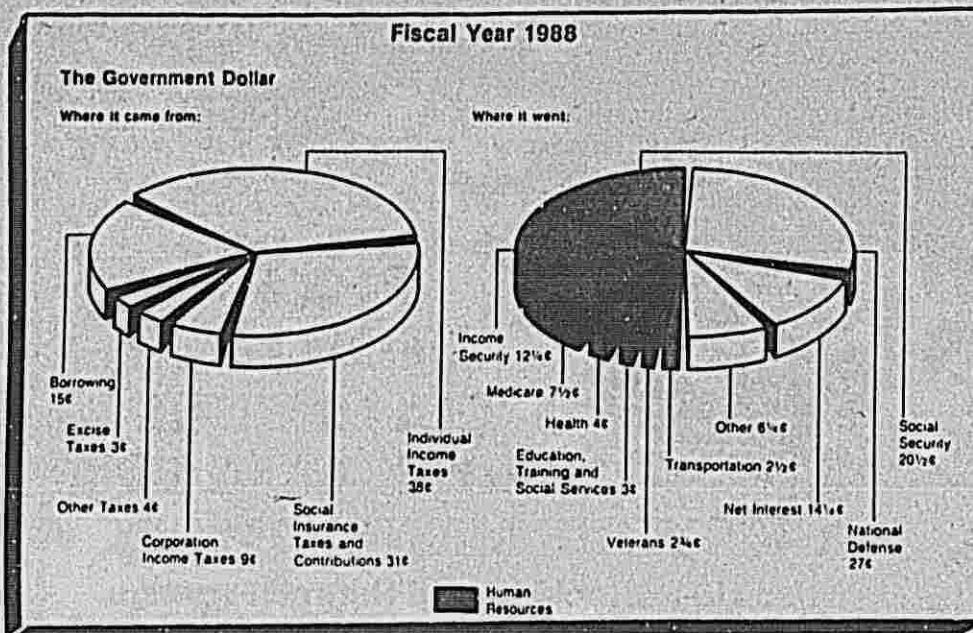

To qualify for the Child and Dependent Care Credit, a taxpayer 1) must have been gainfully employed or in active search of gainful employment when the expense for the child's or dependent's care was incurred, and 2) must have paid over half the cost of maintaining his or her household, which included one or more qualifying individuals. A qualifying individual is a dependent child under 15 years of age or a spouse or dependent who is mentally or physically incapable of self-care.

How to claim

To claim the credit, taxpayers can file Form 1040A, using the worksheet in the Form 1040A tax package to compute the amount of the credit. Taxpayers who file Form 1040 may also claim the credit, even if they do not itemize deductions. These taxpayers compute the credit on Form 2441, Credit for Child and Dependent Care Expenses, and attach this form to the 1040 form.

Additional information is available in IRS Publication 503, Child and Dependent Care Credit, and Employment Taxes for Household Employers.

Federal estate tax return may have to be filed

An executor, personal representative, or beneficiary of the estate of a person who dies may have certain responsibilities for federal estate tax, according to the IRS.

Federal estate tax applies to the transfer of property at death. The federal estate tax return must be filed by the executor of the estate of the decedent, or by the person in charge of the decedent's property.

The estate and the executor of personal representative are primarily liable for paying the tax, but if they do not pay the tax when due, the beneficiaries of the estate may have to pay it, though only to the extent of the value of the property they received.

In the case of a U.S. citizen or resident, an estate tax return must be filed if the value of the gross estate at the date of death was more than $600,000.

Federal estate tax returns are filed on Form 706, "United States Estate (and Generation-Skipping Transfer) Tax Return. The return is due nine months after the date of death, unless an extension of time for filing is requested and granted.

Double check return and avoid delays

To those expecting a tax refund this year, the Internal Revenue Service says a quick check for accuracy can help avoid mistakes which might slow tax return processing. Carefully prepared, easy-to-read returns can be processed faster, the IRS advises. Once the return is completed, the IRS suggests that tax-payers consult the following check list:

- Have you attached all your Forms W-2, Wage and Tax Statements?
- Have you attached all the supporting schedules to your Form 1040?
- Are your name and social security number on each schedule?
- Are the names and social security numbers of dependents five years or over on your return?
- Is your arithmetic correct?
- Are all of your entries on the proper lines?
- If you rounded off your numbers, did you round off consistently?
- Is your handwriting legible?
- When you used the Tax Table, did you follow the line across to the correct column for your filing status?
- Did you sign and date your return? Remember, if it's a joint return, your spouse must sign too.
- Did you use the peel-off label, and is the information on the label correct?
- Have you made necessary corrections right on the peel-off label?
- Have you retained a copy of your return for your records?
- Did you remember to put the correct postage on the pre-addressed envelope?
- Did you make a copy of your return for your files?

Allocated tips may be income

Employees to whom tips are allocated should report the allocated tips as income on their income tax returns, according to the IRS.

Tips are allocated by employers, who compare the total of all tips reported by the employees with eight percent (or a lower percentage) of the establishment's total food and beverage receipts. If records show that the total tips reported by the employees fall below the applicable percentage, the employer will be required to allocate the difference between the two amounts among those employees who receive tips, and report the difference to the IRS.

Tip allocations are made only to employees who receive tips directly from customers unless there is an agreement that they be allocated among all tipped employees. Employers should withhold income, social security or railroad retirement tax only on the tips reported by the employees, not the allocated amounts. Food and beverage establishments where tipping is customary and that normally employ more than 10 employees are required to file an annual report with the IRS. The amount employees must include on their tax returns may be more or less than the allocated amount. However, the IRS may use the employer's annual report to determine that a tipped employee received a larger amount of tip income than reflected by the tip allocation.

Employees who earn $20 or more a month in tips while working for one employer must report the total amount of these tips each month to their employer by the 10th day of the following month. Some employers may require these written reports more than once a month.

The monthly tip report must contain the employee's name, address and social security number. The employer's name and address, the period covered and the total amount of tips must also be in the report, which must be signed and dated by the employee. Keeping daily tip records will make preparing the monthly report easier, according to the IRS.

Free IRS forms are available for maintaining a daily tip record and preparing monthly reports. Call or write the IRS and ask for Publication 1244 which contains the necessary forms. Publication 531, Reporting Income from Tips, has more detailed information and is also available without charge.

Theater sets 'King of Hearts' debut

The Woodstock Opera House box office now has tickets for the Saturday, March 3, presentation of "King of Hearts" by the National Theatre of the Deaf (NTD).

"King of Hearts" has been chosen by the National Theatre of the Deaf to highlight its 21st season.

"King of Hearts" has a gemlike quality, an evanescent and poetic sensibility which makes it perfect for the National Theatre of the Deaf's luminous visual style, fusing sign language with the spoken word to create "sculpture in the air." "King of Hearts", a French film by Philippe de Broca, was released in the United States in 1967. It has become a cult classic, with audiences returning to see it again and again at revival cinemas; the film reportedly played for several years at one theatre in Cambridge, Mass., and became a similar favorite in Seattle and Portland, Wash.

The National Theatre of the Deaf's production of "King of Hearts" will take core ideas and theme from the film to create a unique work for the stage, in some cases incorporating related images and themes from other sources to build a comic and touching play.

"King of Hearts" was adapted by the NTD actors and directed by J. Ranelli. Ranelli has been associated with the NTD since its inception. He directed "The Heart is a Lonely Hunter" for the company's 1986-87 season, and "Songs From Milkwood" for the 1969-70 tour. He also created the improvisational style, which remains the hallmark of the troupe's Little Theatre of the Deaf performances.

David Hays, artistic director of the NTD, began the company.

Now celebrating its 21st season, the troupe has given over 5,000 performances in 26 countries.

The National Theatre of the Deaf will present one performance at 8 p.m. on Saturday, March 3. Admission is $15 for adults; $13 for students and seniors. Call the box office at (815)338-5300.

Critic's Choice

'Walk' memorable theatrical stroll

by TOM WITOM

"A Walk in the Woods," Lee Blessing's comedy/drama having its midwest premiere at Steppenwolf Theater in Chicago, takes place in a forest preserve outside Geneva.

The sylvan setting is the neutral ground where two negotiators, one American and the other Russian, meet periodically to get to know one another — and test their bargaining skills away from the conference room with all its formality and etiquette.

Rick Snyder breathes life into the role of John Honeyman, the eager, idealistic U.S. diplomat newly thrust into the round of high-level talks. He's also pompous, testy and a bit of a stuffed shirt.

Understandably, he is highly suspicious of his suave, wily Russian counterpart, Andrey Botvinnik, played with conviction by Robert Bruehl, who challenges the new arrival not to be so serious. Botvinnik, a survivor of along career of fruitless arms reduction talks, does his best to charm Honeyman into friendship.

The seasoned Soviet negotiator defends his cynicism as "realism."

As the scenes shift so do the seasons, and the two men wrestle verbally over issues large and small and eventually come to respect one another. As combatants, they are equitably matched, although Botvinnik briefly gets the upper hand when he refuses to concede a point until Honeyman engages him in a mandatory frivolous conversation. It's not surprising that for him to trivial and entertaining at the same time is his key to keeping a grip on things.

Directed by Randall Arney, "A Walk in the Woods" is an ambitious, invigorating theatrical stroll, one whose memories will stay with its audience long after the two-hour outing. It continues through March 19.

What you should know about renting a car

by JIM WARREN, PRESIDENT
NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

Having finally figured out all the rules of how to qualify for the low advertised airfares (with the help of your travel agent, of course), all that's left is to rent a car. Your shopping has just begun!

"XYZ" Car Rental claims to have a price of only $60 a week while "ABC" Car Rental advertises $70. So let's go with XYZ. It's not that simple. XYZ Car Rental may not tell you up front, but they could charge a fee for having a booth at the airport, a fuel service charge, highly inflated insurance fees, and a drop charge if you don't return the car where you picked it up. All of which could double or triple your original quote!

Let's start with optional insurance coverage. Do you need it, and what does it cost? If your current insurance policy covers your liability for damage to a rental car, you may not need the collision damage waiver (CDW). Check with your insurance agent on this matter before you travel. Consider also the amount of coverage your present policy provides. If your policy is for coverage of your 1982 Vega and you are renting a 1989 Lincoln, your collision damage coverage may not be high enough. If you find you are sufficiently covered, don't be pressured into taking additional insurance from the car company. This is a real money maker for them. Also, if you charge your rental to your American Express Card (green or gold), you are covered automatically covered for damage to the rental car.

Fuel service charges are another concern. Some companies give you a full tank and ask only that you return it full. This is the way to go. Others charge you about $12 for a half-tank of gas and ask that you return the car empty. Try that with a strange car driving through the deserts of Arizona!

Other companies may charge a fee for the convenience of being located at the airport. Consider one of the "off airport" locations.

As with anything these days, when you see a really low price, be on the lookout for "hidden extras"!

Magnificent Dunn's River Falls

Port adventures exciting on Lakeland News Cruise

by DENNIS & MARY O'BRIEN

After two romantic nights and a day-and-a-half at sea spent luxuriating among the S.S. Riviera's many pleasures, Lakeland Newspapers cruisers will experience the excitement of the first approach into port. Then we'll have six hours to explore Ocho Rios, Jamaica, where the beaches are exquisite, the music is reggae, and the straw market is overwhelming.

The name Ocho Rios (eight rivers in Spanish) has no basis in fact. Spaniards originally named the settlement Las Chorreras (the waterfalls) after the magnificent Dunn's River Falls just west of town. British settlers apparently heard wrong, and it's been called Ocho Rios ever since.

Visitors from cruise ships are usually serenaded on arrival by calypso bands and dancers. You can sign up on board for a tour of the area, get a tour bus at the dock, or strike out on your own.

You may want to hit the white, sandy beach—Turtle Beach or Mallard's Beach—and enjoy a cool drink at the Sheraton or the Americana.

Or take in the picturesque craft market where you can pick up a straw hat or some remarkable wood carvings at remarkable prices. (Dennis has a wonderfully carved Jamaican doctor bird on his office shelf.)

If you opt for a bus or van tour, you'll probably be taken from bright sunlight into the cool semi-darkness of the famous Fern Gully. Truly one of the loveliest pieces of road in the world, it was once a riverbed. Now a dense growth of giant ferns and trees lines the road, completely blocking the sun.

But the absolutely do-not-miss attraction of Ocho Rios is Dunn's River Falls. This is a wedding-cake-like series of cascades which gush from wooded limestone cliffs. The tourist tradition is to climb them.

Wear a bathing suit (changing facilities and lockers are available) and bring rubber-soled shoes you don't mind getting soaked.

You pay a small fee and join a daisy chain of tourists led by a guide and carefully climb to the top. The rocks are slippery and, in some spots, the water is torrential.

Mountain climbing skills are not required, but you could get bruised if you fall. There are several places along the way where you can exit if the climb becomes too tiring.

You'd love to spend a week in Ocho Rios, but you're due back on board for dinner. After all the sights and delights in port, you'll be ready for a culinary event.

From the welcoming smiles of the maitre d' and the waiters you've come to know, to the satisfying meal you've come to expect, you won't be disappointed.

Enormous fish coming, according to Col. Bill

Fishing ranks among America's top recreational interests. Bragging anglers recount catching experiences of the wallhangers, or even more unbelievable tales about the awesome one that got away.

Dubious to some, these experiences do happen and often are confirmable. Bushels of outdoor information comes from outdoor shows past, those in progress and others scheduled. More than a dozen opportunities lie within an hour's drive.

But enormous fish are coming, say fish hatchery heads in Illinois and nearby states. Researchers are able to create a sexless, triploid fish with a gene structure unsuitable for reproduction.

So equipped, these fish do not produce eggs, sperm or spawn. They concentrate on continuous eating and growth. Biologists predict they will live much longer than normal reproducing strains.

This possibility extends to most species of Illinois gamefish that receive conservation's attention. Mike Conlin, Illinois Fisheries' chief, states that only a limited number of eggs will be processed. These giants will consume three times the usual forage for additional years.

"Illinois surface is only seven percent of Lake Michigan," Conlin said, "and we are not pushing this too hard now. But if the Mild to severe itching resulting from dry skin is one of the most common and uncomfortable characteristics of aging skin. It can appear after exposure to soaps, irritating cleaning products and dry air in overheated rooms. It is important for older people to use lotions to prevent severe itching because the scratching that often follows can lead to infection or long term skin irritation. The most important factor in choosing a moisturizer is the way it feels on your skin, but highly perfumed products should be avoided.

Symphony to appear at CLC

Dale Clevenger, principal horn of the Chicago Symphony, will conduct a concert of the North Suburban Symphony at 7 p.m. on Sunday, March 5, in the auditorium of the College of Lake County in Grayslake.

In addition to conducting performances of Brahms "Academic Festival Overture" and Schumann's "Symphony No. 4".

The North Suburban Symphony was formed in October, 1988, in an affiliation with the College of Lake County. This concert will be the first performance by the orchestra in the CLC auditorium.

The orchestra was organized by players with experience in both community and professional symphonies, in order to offer residents in the northern suburbs the chance to both attend inexpensive performances of symphonic music and to play in such a volunteer orchestra.

Competent adult musicians as well as talented college and public school instrumentalists are encouraged to join this organization, which rehearses on Tuesday evenings. Interested prospective players should call Richard Rusch, (312) 234-9207.

Tickets for the March 5 concert are $5 for adults and $3 for students and senior citizens (65 or over). They may be purchased at the box office of the CLC auditorium or ordered by mail and picked up at the door at the time of the concert by sending a check to the North Suburban Symphony, c/o Mrs. Douglas Habercamp, 1121 N. Waukegan Rd., Deerfield, IL 60015.

Court Hotel deserves reputation

by Dennis and Mary
O'Brien

We heard good things about Dallas' three-year old Crescent Court Hotel and had a chance to check it out. Centerpiece of a $250 million complex whose 18th Century French architecture stands out against Dallas' steel and glass skyline, the Crescent Court is beautifully appointed and built to last forever.

The complex includes office towers and a shopping gallery among whose stars is Stanley Korshak's.

The hotel houses the most elegant and exquisitely furnished health club we ever saw. The bar at the Beau Nash is where the movers and the shakers of Yuppie Dallas meet.

One of the best restaurants in town, the mahogany-lined Bea Nash has an eclectic menu featuring among other combinations, pizza with smoked salmon and golden caviar. (We tried it and it was great!)

BEST FOOT FORWARD

FROM THE OFFICE OF
DR. PAUL ABLER

WHAT PRICE GLORY?

There seems to be no limit to contests that glorify human endurance-like eating the most pies or hot dogs. In the same league is the Rotten Sneaker Contest held each year in Montpelier, VT.

The more tattered, torn and smelly an entrant's sneakers, the better the chance of winning. To qualify, the worn and torn sneakers must be deemed somewhat usable. The latest contest attracted 32 contestants, aged 1/2 to 17. The winner was an eight-year-old boy whose toes stuck out of his sneakers. Dragging sneakers on pavement while biking is one way contestants prepare for the event.

Obviously, young active feet need protection against injury and infection. Wearing tattered sneakers, though stylish to a youngster, can invite foot problems.

THE HOME GAME

GLEAMING GEMS — Toothpaste, applied with a soft brush, makes a good cleaning agent for gold rings. Diamonds will shine if soaked in water to which you've added sudsy ammonia.

TORTURE PROOF — Don't fight the stiffness of new jeans when you can soften them by soaking for 12 hours in a tub of cold water and lots of fabric softener. Wash as usual.

TALL IS BETTER — Those plastic bread wrappers are worth saving for many kitchen uses, such as flouring chicken. The extra length also makes them great for storing celery or carrots.

Pet of the week

Lake Villa animals Mike the cat and Patty the dog are co-winners of this week's Pet of the Week award. Breeders develop alternatives to red rose

No longer is the rose simply red. White and pink are not the only alternatives for a dozen long-stems. Now a bouquet of St. Valentine's Day roses can be anything from mauve to poppy to salmon to white.

People still favor red for passion, yellow for friendship and white for love, but many women prefer a greater variety of color in their flowers, says John W. White, professor of horticulture at Pennsylvania State University.

The red rose remains at the top of the list, because male flower shoppers keep it there, says White, especially when buying for holiday sweethearts. In fact, he says, any other color may be hard to get.

"Talk to your local florist about the availability of non-red flowers well ahead of holidays," White says, "especially at Valentine's Day, since colors other than red may be in short supply."

"There are new breeds every year," White adds. Now available are miniature roses, longer lasting than the average one week for a cut rose, and especially suited for arrangements in a table bouquet, he says.

Flower breeders continue to develop varieties that the sellers hope will entice the public into more flower-buying. Although American rose-buying habits have remained consistent, they are nowhere near the consumption of Europeans.

"In Europe, there is a lot more everyday use whereas, in the United States, we use flowers more for special occasions," White says.

U.S. rose-growing capitals are considered to be in the West but, in fact, Pennsylvania is second only to California in total rose production in the United States, White says. The northeastern states each sport six to 12 growers, he adds.

White says his rose-raising research has been conducted to improve techniques used by eastern growers. His greenhouse work has included studies of increasing carbon dioxide levels and new covers for better light transmission and energy conservation.

Penn State also has a second link to the rose industry, but it is involvement with the other commonly thought of rose, the garden cultivar.

Dr. Charles W. Heuser, associate professor of horticulture physiology at Penn State, says most greenhouse hybrid-T, long-stemmed roses are not as well suited for outdoor use. Hardy hybrid T types are preferred by most home gardeners, but they also opt for grandiflora and floribunda roses.

SPORTS

SCOUTING REPORT

By STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

Last week's record: 4-1.

Johnsburg at Grant

Date: Feb. 10.
Location: Grant High School, Fox Lake.
Team records: Grant 5-4 in NWSC, 8-13 overall; Johnsburg 3-7, 7-13.
Game time: 7:30 p.m.
Keys to game: Grant must find a way to do what only Marengo has done so far: stop Trevor Hart. The Bulldogs kept the Johnsburg hot shooter in check in a first-round win. Grant must be also wary of Tom Oeffling, John Olson and Eric Toussaint, who can also come up with a double-digit night. Grant is closing in on .500 mark in conference play. The Bulldogs are led by Kip Paul.
Prediction: Grant by seven.

Grayslake at Wauconda

Date: Feb. 10.
Location: Wauconda High School.
Team records: Grayslake 13-7 overall, 8-1 in NWSC; Wauconda 1-17, 0-9.
Game time: 7:30 p.m.
Keys to game: Rams easily beat Bulldogs in Grayslake first time with strong start. Timm West & Co. should have little trouble second time around, although Dion Niemo is a scoring threat to be stopped.
Prediction: Grayslake by 15.

Marian Central at Round Lake

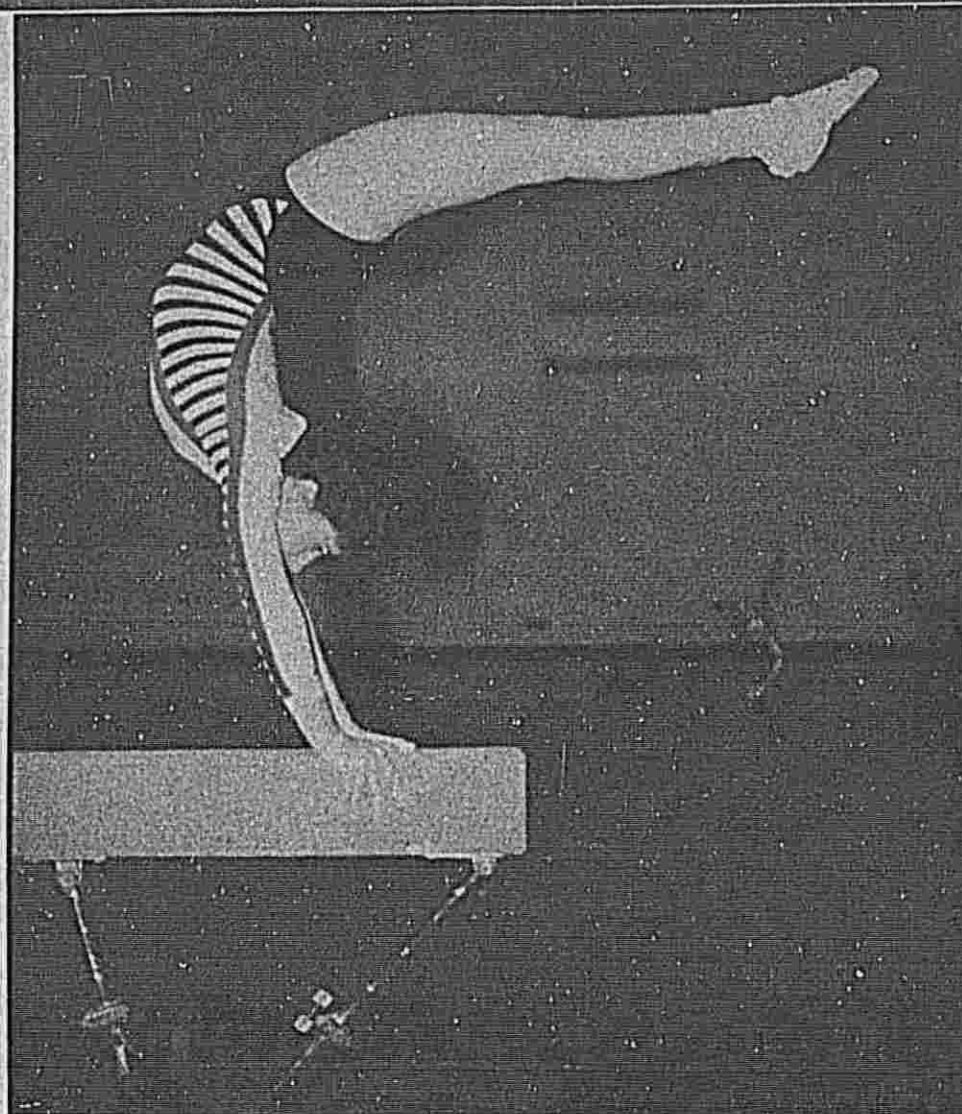

Date: Feb. 10.
Location: Round Lake Senior High School.
Team records: Round Lake 8-11 overall, 4-6 in NWSC; Marian Central 11-5 overall, 8-2 in NWSC.
Game time: 7:30 p.m.
Keys to game: how Round Lake responds to playing two top NWSC teams in one week. Round Lake's top inside threat is Scott Hall with Rick Haines scoring from outside. Marian Central still has a shot at the conference lead and counters with John Hartlieb. Tom Krause and Kevin Carney lead the frontline.
Prediction: Round Lake wins in an upset by three.

Antioch at North Chicago

Date: Feb. 10.
Location: North Chicago Community High School.
Team records: North Chicago 11-9 overall, 9-4 in North Suburban Conference; Antioch 10-12 overall, 7-7 in NSC.
Game time: 7:30 p.m.
Keys to game: Antioch has distinction of being one of select group of teams to stop North Chicago's Elbert Moore. Moore was held to six points as Antioch won first round 57-48 in upset. Coach Jeff Dresser's team appears to have shaken the win-one, lose one habit. Scott Gooch and Matt Pelland lead the way. North Chicago must keep Pelland's rebound total down.
Prediction: Antioch continues its improvement, wins by two.

Mundelein at Warren

Date: Feb. 11.
Location: Warren High, Gurnee.
Team records: Warren 17-4 overall, 12-2 in NSC; Mundelein 5-15, 1-12.
Game time: 7:30 p.m.
Keys to game: Warren just has too much firepower for Mundelein to be a threat. Blue Devils can hit an opponent with Qasim Dominquez, Mark Eifert, Nick Stianos or Corey Statham from the inside, all of whom have scored regularly in double figures.

Heading to sectionals

Hard-work brings Round Lake girls shot at regional championship

By STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

Round Lake girls basketball Coach Gary Edge admitted as much back in November. Even then, when the drought was still news and the records were 0-0, he knew his team would not win games by bullying people. So just how did the Panthers win 16 of 22 games and advance to the final game of the Antioch regional? "Our tallest girl is 5-7. We have players who are playing forward positions who are 5-5. We're 16-6 for the year and the only reason we're 16-6 is because we work hard.

There's been games when Cyndie (Donner) has been in foul trouble and other people have carried us," Edge said.

Donner, a junior who averaged more than 20 points a game in the regular season, scored 34 to lead the Panthers into the title game against Warren with a trip to sectionals at stake.

Round Lake trailed for much of the game as Grant enjoyed leads of seven points in the first half and eight in the second.

Donner saved the best for last, scoring 14 points in the final quarter.

"We had her inside for a while, we had her outside for a while, and she made some big shots," Edge said.

The win by Round Lake set up a Warren-Round Lake regional final clash Thursday which featured the top two scorers in Lake County girls basketball - Warren's Crystal Cobb and Donner. Both teams were gunning for their straight second regional title.

Donner, a 70 percent free-throw shooter, missed four straight free throws, but regained her touch in time to make two which gave Round Lake a 47-41 lead with 4:22 left.

Cobb, Blue Devils ease Campbell's concern

By STEVE PETERSON
Sports Editor

Warren High School varsity girls basketball Coach Bruce Campbell was concerned.

Yes, his Blue Devils did finish 20-5 for the regular season, the second straight time a Warren team has accomplished that feat. And yes, the Blue Devils were going up against an Antioch team which had won only two games all year and a team which Warren beat by 30 points to close the season. But that's just where the concern started. "I don't like to play a team four times in one season. The odds start getting smaller," Campbell said before the Antioch regional game against the Sequoits.

But led by Crystal Cobb's 29 points, the Blue Devils quickly relieved any of the fears of the head coach with a 64-36 slaughter of the Sequoits. Round Lake had a tougher time of it in its first round game of the Antioch regional, beating Grant 53-48. The championship game was scheduled for Feb. 9.

"This year we told her we had all underclassmen and she was the only senior, so we told Crystal she would have to pick up the slack," Campbell said of Cobb's showing.

But while Cobb is known throughout basketball circles as a scorer - she is within shooting distance of 2,000 points for a career - the regional game showed Cobb's other skills as well.

"She sets up an awful lot of people. She's played under the team concept. She has never taken more than 15 shots a game in three years," Campbell said.

Warren's attack was spread throughout the lineup as all Blue Devils played. Junior Melissa Webster scored 12 points and Christy Baker had nine.

Cobb, who started the season by signing a national letter of intent to attend Arizona State, seemed to take charge right from the start. She scored the game's first field goal - a three pointer - and three more two-pointers as Warren led 9-0 and 13-2 in the first quarter.

"We all chipped in and made them when we had to make them," Campbell said.

Antioch's closest attempt to get into the contest came late in the first quarter. Using a pressing defense, Antioch closed to within 15-8 on two Liz Johnson free throws with :26 seconds left.

Warren, led by Webster's two field goals, scored seven straight points to start the second quarter and led 22-8.

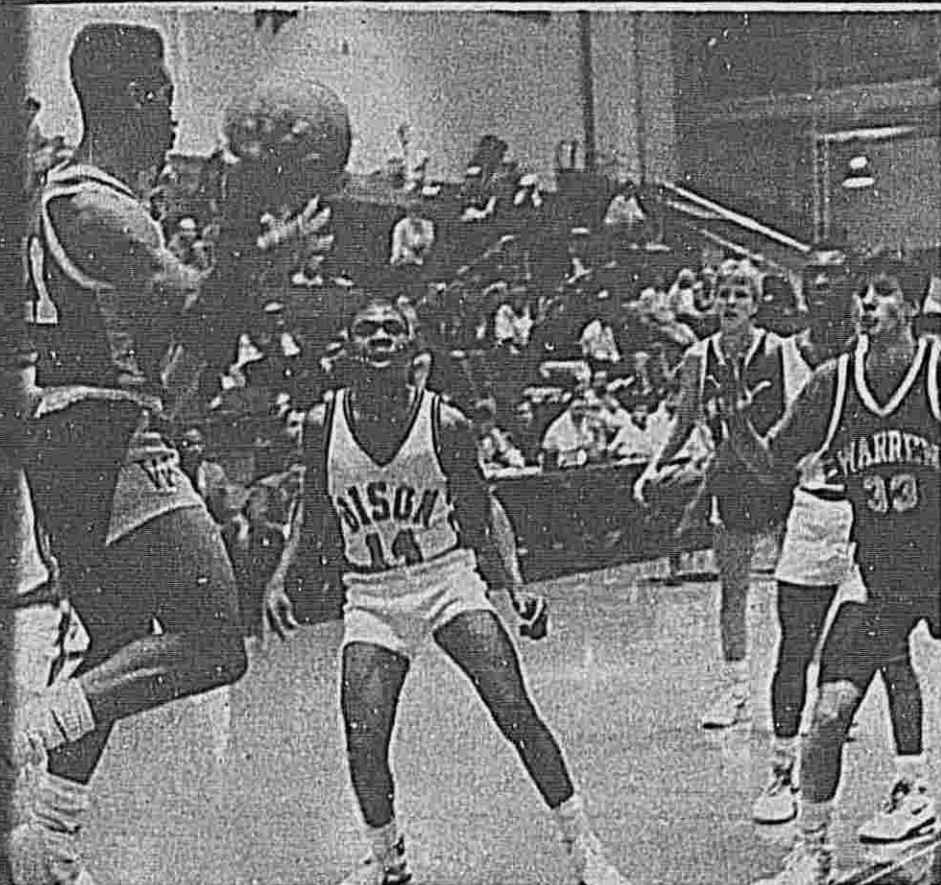

Warren doubled Antioch's score at halftime, 28-14.

For Antioch, the loss ended a learning experience for first-year Coach Cindy Martin.

"When the junior varsity coach did not show up to start the season, I had to coach both teams for two months. It was hard working with both teams," Martin said.

And add to that the coaching change and new system, it took a while for to gel.

Antioch can look forward to a number of returning underclassmen, including Teri Farnsworth. Farnsworth was Antioch's only double-digit scorer with 12 points.

Making the save

Starostovic's shot cancels rerun in season finale

Nobody would blame Grant girls basketball Coach Sue Richardson if she thought she was seeing a bad rerun.

Just a couple of days earlier, Grant had squandered a 10-point lead and ended up losing to Round Lake by that many. Some 48 hours later, the Bulldogs once again lost a double-digit lead to Grayslake. Would history repeat itself?

Thanks to Stacy Starostovic, the answer was a resounding "no". For it was the senior's tip-in shot with 41 seconds left which gave the Bulldogs a 43-42 win.

"They played hard against Round Lake but did not have the intensity they did against Grayslake," Richardson said.

For Starostovic, the winning shot capped a 10-point night and ended her career at Grant on a high note.

"We had to go back to Starostovic in the middle," Richardson said.

The shot also eliminated any Rams chance of tying for the Northwest Suburban Conference lead. Grayslake finished NWSC play at 10-4, 16-6.

Grayslake had a final shot but Nancy Brenner missed from three-point range. Brenner was coming off a 39-point record-setting outing against Lake Zurich and was "held" to 19 points.

"We did a good job as far as not letting her get her shots," Richardson said.

Chris Lupori had 17 points for the Rams.

Lisa Mieszanek led the winners with 12 points.

Grant led 24-14 at halftime but the visitors quickly began to chip away in the second half. A Brenner hoop cut the lead to seven but Grant built that up to 11.

Panthers loss streak ends with 80-point game

Round Lake's boys basketball team ended its losing streak in resounding fashion by routing Wauconda in a game which featured the Panthers' best showing on offense to date.

The Panthers traveled to Wauconda and had no trouble with the Bulldogs, whipping them 80-54 in a Northwest Suburban Conference game.

Jason Day and Scott Hall shared team-high honors with 18 points each, both coming off the bench.

"Day had his best game of the year," Round Lake Coach Bob Ward said.

Rick Haines had 17 points, including five three-pointers.

The win broke a five-game losing streak for Round Lake and gave the Panthers a 7-11 record, 3-6 in NWSC.

"We've been playing well but not getting the win to show for it," Ward said.

Round Lake made 25 field goals and the Panthers were strong at the free-throw line, making 12-for-16.

Dion Niemo had 20 points for Wauconda but was the only Bulldog to tally in double figures.

Round Lake took an 18-7 lead after one but the home team made a run at the Panthers in the second quarter.

Carmel hoping history repeats against St. Joe Carmel's boys basketball team will be hoping history repeats itself when St. Joseph travels to Mundelein.

The Corsairs, the last time the East Suburban Catholic Conference power came to Mundelein won a double-overtime thriller. That was the only loss St. Joseph suffered in league play for the whole year.

Carmel is coming into the game against the 10-0 St. Joe's team hoping home cooking will provide needed late-season momentum. Carmel fell 60-55 against Holy Cross in an away game for the second straight league loss.

"We'd like to go to regionals with a .500 record but we will have to play smart basketball," Carmel Coach Scott Rosberg said.

Carmel, 11-8 overall and 4-6 in the ESCC, started the way it wanted to against Holy Cross, leading 19-16 after one and 32-30 at halftime.

"We played well in the first half," Rosberg said.

Carmel trailed 56-55 for several seconds in the final quarter before Crusader Mark D'Angelo sank two key free throws.

Chris Mikrut led Carmel with 14 points and Brian Finn had 12.

Holy Cross enjoyed a 12-1 advantage at the free-throw line.

If Carmel is to upset St. Joseph, the Corsairs must stop Darrell Cunningham, St. Joseph's powerful center.

Things don't get easier for Carmel the next night. Although they will be playing at home again Feb. 11, they must face non-conference power Deerfield. Both games begin at 7:30 p.m.

CLC women hoopsters focus on defense, win

College of Lake County's women's basketball team is one squad that when it puts its collective efforts to something, positive things happen.

Such was the case for the Lancers in wins over Morton and Wright in Skyway Conference play. The wins improved CLC's mark to 6-4.

"We made an effort to focus on defense," CLC Coach Don Zeman said.

Zeman's forces started the winning streak with a 52-28 win over Morton at CLC. The Lancers led 21-12 at halftime.

Teri Huntington had 23 points to lead the winners and Crystal Payne had 17. CLC had a 12-5 advantage from the free-throw line.

Two days later, the Lancers traveled to Chicago and continued their strong play on defense in a 66-55 win over Wright.

The Lancers also did the job on offense getting one of their most balanced attacks of the season. As usual, Huntington led with 28 points. Jennifer Robison had 12 and Karen Whalen and Payne had 10. Michelle Smith contributed eight.

"We've remained in the first division the entire season. Team defense has been one of the biggest areas of improvement," Zeman said.

CLC's wins gave the Lancers a 6-12 overall mark.

Round Lake girls

Those fouls came when Grant's center, Susan Strastovic, who led Grant with 15 points, fouled out.

"We just don't have anyone who can really match up with her," Edge said.

"Strastovic has done a great job the second half of the season," Grant Coach Sue Richardson said.

Despite the loss of the center, the Bulldogs, who ended their season at 11-12, fought to the end. A basket by Amy Nelson with 1:04 left ended a three-minute scoreless run by Grant and trimmed the lead to 51-47.

A Nelson free throw trimmed the lead to three. Donner came through with two free throws with :44 seconds left to secure the win.

Round Lake, because of its lack of height, generally favors the run-and-gun approach. "It may not look like it, but we generally have a plan. We want to get you going up and down the floor," Edge said.

Grant's slowdown style prevailed in the early going as Grant jumped out to a 9-3 lead on a Strastovic hoop. But as in future leads, the Bulldogs could not hold it, as Round Lake pulled to within one.

Grant led by seven, 19-12, before a Round Lake spurt, thanks in part to Grant turnovers, made it 25-22 at halftime.

A technical foul on Round Lake's Peg Amedio, seemed to put the Bulldogs in control in the third. Lisa Mieszanek, who had 11 points, hit both free throws and a Strastovic basket off a Mieszanek assist gave Grant a 35-27 lead.

But Grant finished the quarter with five turnovers in the final three minutes, allowing Round Lake to come to within two.

PRESS PHOTOGRAPHER

Lakeland Newspapers is seeking a combination of artistic talent and professional competence for a full-time position as staff photographer.

Salary is open for the person prepared for the challenge of a 40 hours plus position with weekends and some nights to get the "right" shot every time.

Should be grounded technically in all aspects of photography, although darkroom work will not be required. Must be comfortable with "bread and butter" assignments while awaiting the call for spot news or features.

Writing background helpful. Well rounded portfolio will overcome lack of previous press experience. Will consider the "studied" amateur who has been waiting for a break. Car necessary. Excellent benefits package. To arrange interview, write or call M.D. Pramshafer, managing editor.

CLEMATIS

This contemporary home, the Clematis, boasts a striking and intriguing exterior, which carries throughout. Its unique twin master suites and extensive use of glass made it the fourth most desired plan for 1988. The interior space design makes it suitable as a vacation home to share with people with whom you wish to stay friends, or as a year round residence.

A bedroom wing extends on either side of the high vaulted living area, and offers extensive privacy. The two bedrooms on the main level are large, with 10 foot closets, and each has its own personal bath, compartmentalized for even greater privacy, and each with a double vanity. Each bedroom opens to its own secluded patio, which is protected by the extended walls of the main living area. The living area is generous, with a large masonry fireplace and a circular stairway dominating the center of the house. One wall features windows along its full cathedral height.

Near the entry, from the carport and the storage area, a third full bath, utility room and pantry help assure that the practical necessities of keeping a home - even on vacation - will be there when needed. With such sizeable storage, you can stock up ahead and enjoy where you are. That full bath helps make sure no one has to cross the living space before they have a chance to clean up from outside activities, and is convenient for guests as well.

The kitchen has lots of counter space and cupboards, including a sink and chopping block island, that allows the cook to continue to enjoy conversations with friends in the living area. The circular stairway leads to a loft room above. This could be a library, a guest room, or a third bedroom. From this room, windowed doors open to a deck that is also the roof for the carport below.

For a study plan of the Clematis (109-03), send $5.00 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering). Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.

FIRST FLOOR PLAN

PLAN #P 288-11

SECOND FLOOR PLAN

PLAN #P 288-11

The Easton represents the best of Southeastern tradition. The full brick exterior, symmetrical shuttered windows, and central front gable give the home a feeling of solidity and Colonial charm.

The entryway is quite formal, with stairs coming down to a small foyer between formal living and dining rooms. The front hall leads to a relaxed family room with fireplace and rear deck access.

The kitchen is conveniently placed between the dining room and breakfast nook. Casual meals can be served directly into the nook across a short eating bar. Pantry, storage closet, and utility room are nearby. A half-bath lies at the center of the ground floor, close to all working areas of the house.

The sleeping quarters are all upstairs, three bedrooms and a master suite. The master contains a private bath and Jacuzzi (one exception to the traditional theme). The rest of the bedrooms are served by the main bath in the upper hall.

Gabled garage roofs almost beg to be converted into living space. Sherill Troutman, Jr., the designer of the Easton, has anticipated that demand by drawing in a bonus room above the garage. The bonus room is very private, since it adjoins no other living space. At the same time, it is readily accessible via either the garage stairs or upper hall. It can become a rental unit, office, exercise room, or any other environment its owner can imagine.

For a study plan of the Easton (288-11), send $5.00 to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2832, Eugene, OR 97402. (Be sure to specify plan name & number when ordering). Designers, Architects and readers with plans they would like to see featured also are invited to contact Landmark.
